LEAGUE COUNCIL IN TEST TO-MORROW

Liberal Leader In Capital of Alberta To-day

Mr. King, After Addressing Voters in Edmonton This Evening, Will Come to B.C. Coast and Will Be Heard in Victoria Friday Evening.

Has Talk With Prairie Candidates

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 25.—

Liberal Leader Mackenzie King arrived in Edmonton to-day and will hold his first campaign meeting in Alberta here this evening.

Mr. King spent the day quietly, receiving a few friends and making a few calls. This afternoon he held a conference with nine Liberal candidates in northern Alberta constituencies.

Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior and now a candidate, and other Liberal stalwarts welcomed Mr. King shortly after his arrival this morning.

Mr. King will come to the B.C. Coast from Edmonton. He will address a meeting in Victoria Friday evening. Interest both here and in Vancouver is running high and the Liberal leader is assured of capacity audiences.

FATHER FOUND DEAD BY SON

Arthur D. Spring Succumbs During Night; Was Salesman in City

Arthur D. Spring, a middle-aged salesman, who resided at the Caldwell Apartments, 2321 Cook Street, was found dead in bed by his sixteen-year-old son, Kenneth, shortly before 8:30 o'clock this morning. He had apparently succumbed to natural causes during his sleep, according to police.

Mr. Spring, a former resident of eastern Canada, had been here some time. He was a widower and resided with his son, with whom he slept in the apartment.

When Kenneth awoke this morning, his father did not respond to his calls to awaken him. The boy called police, who discovered the fatality and summoned Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner. The body was removed to McCall's funeral home.

SCHOONER AND CREW MISSING

No Trace of Vessel Found During Search Off Northern Newfoundland

Canadian Press
Halifax, Sept. 25.—A wireless message to the East Coast Radio signal service here to-day aroused fears that an unknown schooner had gone to the bottom with all hands in the Atlantic off northern Newfoundland.

Sudden disappearance of all her lights after distress signals had flashed in the darkness last night led to the anxiety for the ship and crew. To-day after three hours' search over the spot no trace of the ship could be found by the British freighter Troutpool, whose crew sighted the distress signals.

SNOW IN PARTS OF ALBERTA

Canadian Press
Lethbridge, Sept. 25.—Southern Alberta has experienced its first snow and sleet of the season, Cardston, Kimball and Lundbreck in the foothills country reporting wintry weather. Light drizzles of rain fell over the rest of the south, but not enough to hamper harvest operations seriously. Beet digging which started Monday, is proceeding rapidly.

LOUIS WILL TOUR EUROPE

Latest Heavyweight Ring Sensation Reveals Plans for Foreign Invasion

New York, Sept. 25.—Joe Louis, the battling bridegroom, agreed to-day to plans for a foreign tour, including fights in South Africa and European capitals, under the promotion of Mike Jacobs.

Jacobs, who staged the million-dollar spectacle yesterday evening, featured by the brown bomber's four-round knockout of Max Baer, announced his intention of taking Louis aboard after pitting the negro against the best available opponent in a charity match at the Coliseum, Bronx indoor arena, late this November.

The German heavyweight, Walter Neusel, who refereed the million-dollar fight, said to-day that the decisive punch was a left hook to the pit of the stomach, delivered by the negro in the first round.

While in Europe, this winter, Jacobs plans to close negotiations with Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight champion, for a fifteen-round bout in New York, 1936, the winner to fight James J. Braddock in September for the title.

REVEREND SPEAKS
New York, Sept. 25.—Arthur Donovan, who refereed the Louis-Baer fight, said to-day that the decisive punch was a left hook to the pit of the stomach, delivered by the negro in the first round.

"That punch landed at a time when Baer was going pretty good," said Donovan. "It was a crusher and, I think, took most of the confidence out of the Californian besides slowing him up abruptly. It was a distinct turning point and made the rest of the bout easy for Louis."

B.C. TAKES UP FEDERAL LOAN

Will Use $1,671,000 From Ottawa to Meet New York Maturity

B.C. will take up an accommodation of $1,671,000 from Ottawa to meet a maturity in New York, August 1, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced.

Some time ago, Mr. Hart applied to Ottawa for an advance of this amount on the understanding that if B.C. could make other arrangements to pick up the New York maturity it would do so.

In view of the condition of the market, however, B.C. is unable to secure the money from other sources and has definitely decided to accept the Ottawa loan, he said.

The maturity to be met is a three-year issue put out by the Toronto administration dated October 1, 1932, and bearing interest at 3 per cent. Obtaining the Ottawa loan at 4 1/2 per cent, the province will make a slight saving in interest.

Through Suez To East African Field

While League of Nations delegates have been striving at Geneva to find a plan to avert war in Ethiopia, such scenes as the above have been witnessed. Bound for Eritrea with 1,500 soldiers aboard, the Italian transport was passing through the Suez Canal when the picture was taken. Native boats swarmed about the troopship.

Mayor Declines To Apologize

James L. Simpson of Toronto Tells Italian Consul He Spoke Only As Labor Delegate at Halifax, When Criticizing Mussolini

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 25.—Mayor James Simpson of Toronto refused to-day to apologize to Chevalier Dr. G. Tiberti, royal vice-consul of Italy, for statements the mayor made last week at the annual convention in Halifax of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The vice-consul's protest was in the form of a letter calling attention to Mayor Simpson's address and particularly this utterance: "In this trouble now threatening there is one ruler whose doctrines are most poisonous and who is actuated by a spirit of bitterness and hate. He said some years ago he believed the world would never get beyond the state when war was countenanced by mankind. This man cannot be expected to live in harmony with other people and is a menace to the people of the world. If he is determined to act as a mad dog, he must be dealt with as one."

AS DELEGATE
The mayor, in his reply, said: "I attended the convention as a delegate from my own union and not, of course, in my official capacity as mayor of Toronto."
"I have no apology to offer for my remarks."
"I am kindly disposed toward the people of your great country, but am not in sympathy with the policy of Fascism which is now evidencing itself in the threat against world peace by a war of aggression."

Three More Oddities Add To Proof Of Freak Plant Year

Siamese Twin Golden Plum; Queer Dahlia Blossom and Double Yolked Eggs Substantiate Old Moore's Prediction.

More substantiations of the old Moore prophecy of a freak year in the plant world were reported to the newspaper of The Times to-day.

Mrs. J. P. Bruce of 1732 Bay Street found a "Siamese-twin" golden plum in her garden and brought it to the office this morning.

This brings the total number of "Siamese-twin" fruits and flowers reported in the last week or two to ten.
The latest plum "twin" is particularly unusual as Mrs. Bruce reports that it was the only fruit she picked off her tree. All the rest of the

Plea on Baby Bonds Granted

If Necessary Government Will Introduce Validating Bill on Vancouver Issue

The B. C. government would take steps, if necessary, to validate the bonds issued in connection with expenditures which were authorized by the Legislature at its last session, Premier Pattullo announced yesterday.

Referring to the application of the City of Vancouver, Mr. Pattullo said he was prepared to give assurance that validating legislation would be introduced if found necessary.

In this connection, the Premier said: "The situation is that the Legislature, by special enactment at its last session, authorized the City of Vancouver to carry out certain undertakings. It now appears that objection is being taken through the courts calling into question the validity of the securities which have been or are to be issued to pay for the undertakings authorized by the Legislature."

"I am aware that there is considerable controversy over the site of the proposed City Hall. The government does not propose to enter into this controversy. This is a matter for the City of Vancouver to settle through its City Council. All that the government proposes to do is to place beyond doubt authority of the City Council to carry out the intention of existing legislation."

LORD MONTAGU PUT ON TRIAL

Duke of Manchester's Son, Known in Victoria, Before London Court

Associated Press
London, Sept. 25.—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, pleaded innocent to-day in his trial in Old Bailey court on six counts, charging theft and forgery of a cheque.

The young lord, whose activities have ranged from proprietorship of a coffee stall to aspirations to the French Foreign Legion, was charged with theft and forgery of a banker's cheque for £17 7s, the property of Mrs. Violet Vandenberg, who has been known for leadership of demonstrations against capital punishment.

Lord Montagu is known to many in Victoria, having lived here for some time.

RIFT AT ROME IS DENIED

London Report of Mussolini-Crown Prince Quarrel Stated Unfounded

Associated Press
Rome, Sept. 25.—An Italian government spokesman to-day characterized as utterly absurd a report Premier Mussolini and Crown Prince Umberto had fallen out over the Ethiopian campaign.

The spokesman said the royal house and the government were in perfect accord on the campaign. The official declared Premier Mussolini and the Prince had not seen each other for some weeks and therefore could not have had words several days ago, as stated in the rumors he was denying.

SURPRISE EXPRESSED

London, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—Official Italian quarters expressed amazement to-day at rumors of a possible overthrow of Premier Mussolini.

These officials said stories that Crown Prince Umberto or General Italo Balbo might seize on the present Ethiopian crisis as a challenge (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2.)

Laval Loses Hope Of Averting War

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 25.—Premier Laval, French observers said to-day, having lost hope of preventing an Italo-Ethiopian war, has turned to a study of punitive sanctions against all future aggressors.

A promise by Great Britain to back such sanctions was expected by Quai d'Orsay officials to be forthcoming soon.

Authorities said M. Laval's request for further assurances that Britain would be as firm in League action against future aggressors, implying Germany, as against Italy, would in all probability receive a "favorable" reply.

Advisers to the Premier said he was "sadly disillusioned" by the refusal of Premier Mussolini of Italy to come to peaceful terms over Ethiopia, and that he had already conferred with Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden of Britain over a common Franco-British course.

Lindbergh Aids Scientist's Staff in New Mexico; Meteorological Information Sought

Associated Press
Roswell, N.M., Sept. 25.—Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh lent shirt-sleeved aid to Dr. Robert H. Goddard to-day in experimental work with a rocket designed to speed at 700 miles an hour in search of new meteorological data.

High hopes of obtaining information that will help conquer aviation's next frontier—the stratosphere—spurred Col. Lindbergh as he mingled with the staff of the fifty-two-year-old scientist.

He was in work trousers and shirt as he observed developments in the small frame laboratory here, and at the sixty-foot tower isolated seventeen miles from town where the rockets will be fired.

The Colonel's companion, Harry F. Guggenheim, New York financier, pledged new funds from his family's foundation for the project.

The important problem of automating stabilization of rockets in vertical flight already has been solved, it was stated authoritatively.

Members of Council in Private Conversations Prepare for Fateful Conference To-morrow; Latest Italian Statement Interpreted to Mean Determination to Seize Ethiopia by Means of Military Occupation

Italy and League Declared Far Apart

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Geneva, Sept. 25.—In private conversations members of the Council of the League of Nations to-day virtually determined their plan for action at to-morrow's fateful conference on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

The idea is to go ahead without delay in preparation of a report under paragraph 4, Article XV, of the covenant. To this end a committee will be formed possibly of the entire Council with the exception of Italy. The report will state the facts of the case and make recommendations deemed just and proper under the circumstances. Its preparation will probably occupy a week.

TO WORD IT CAREFULLY
The report, it is intimated, will be prepared as speedily as possible, but in view of its high importance special care will be taken in drafting. If the report is subsequently accepted by a unanimous vote of the Council, other party to the dispute may only resort to war in violation of the covenant. The article concerning sanctions then would apply.

Associated Press
Geneva, Sept. 25.—Publication of Italy's observations, which included the charge the League of Nations had failed to take into consideration Rome's case against Ethiopia, to-day provoked new pessimism in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Italy's "observations," which constitute rejection of terms, were contained in the published narrative of the activities of the League's committee of five.

BRITAIN WILL STATE POLICIES

Pronouncement on Obligations Under League and Ethiopia Situation Expected

Associated Press
London, Sept. 25.—An important pronouncement on Britain's foreign policy, particularly as it affects the government's attitude toward obligations in Europe, was forecast to-day by the press.

The statement was said to be likely to come within a few days, in the form of a note handed to the French Ambassador, amplifying and reaffirming Sir Samuel Hoare's declaration Britain would remain faithful to its European obligations as long as the League of Nations was an effective body.

In the Mediterranean, relations between Britain and Italy seemed less strained after the mutual assurances there was no warlike intention behind the naval concentrations of either nation.

Prime Minister Baldwin, however, intends to outline measures to strengthen both the navy and the air force when he addresses the Conservative Party at its annual conference October 4 at Bournemouth.

"CAUSELESS MISUNDERSTANDING" Rome, Sept. 25.—The Italian government announced in an official communiqué to-day that Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Minister, had told Premier Mussolini of Italy that Great Britain was "particularly desirous of eliminating causeless misunderstandings between the two countries."

The communiqué said this statement was a personal message delivered to Il Duce through Sir Eric Drummond, British Ambassador at Rome, Monday.

The official announcement stated Italy never would be the first to transfer the Italo-Ethiopian conflict to Europe.

Sir Samuel Hoare was stated to have expressed himself in his message to Mussolini as "an old friend of Italy." Il Duce responded, asking Ambassador Drummond to make it known in London that he appreciated Sir Samuel's communication.

DISTILLATION PLANT URGED

Alan Chambers, Liberal Candidate for Nanaimo, Addresses Two Meetings

Nanaimo, B.C., Sept. 25.—Simple, direct and almost immediate means of creating employment in various channels were outlined by Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate for the Nanaimo federal riding, in addresses at Chase River and South Wellington last night, during which he concentrated very largely on the affairs of the coal-mining industry.

"If we were to produce the gasoline alone that we use in B.C. we could put 5,000 more men to work in our mines to-morrow," declared the speaker.

Referring to action of Lady Smith Board of Trade and the enterprise which prompted that body to ask the federal government to establish an experimental and research station for the conversion of coal into oil and coal tar products on Vancouver Island, Mr. Chambers pointed out the brief which he submitted last February to the royal commission inquiring into coal mining industry was a great deal farther and aimed to actually set up an operating distillation plant. These were not times for research and investigation, he said.

Both Great Britain and Germany had amply demonstrated what vast and beneficial possibilities lay in the distillation of coal. In Great Britain, ninety millions of the highest quality gasoline had been distilled from one ton of coal at a cost price of fourteen cents a gallon, established under a system of governmental aid, and this was instanced by Mr. Chambers as ample justification for going ahead with the industry on Vancouver Island.

Next Friday evening in Nanaimo Mr. Chambers will give a complete resume of his proposals for the "resurrection" of the coal mining industry as outlined in his brief to royal commission. Mr. Chambers pointed out that his proposals were governed by his practical experience in logging camps and underground. The eight months which he spent in visiting sixty-five relief camps had given him a knowledge which enabled him to speak with authority on the economic situation of the coal miners. He said he would be glad to see the policy to inject new life into industry. Mr. Chambers was given a good reception at both meetings.

The Chase River hall was crowded and there were over one hundred at South Wellington. Fred Wagstaff, chairman of Chase River and W. B. Trenholm at South Wellington. Dr. G. A. B. Hall spoke strongly in support of Mr. Chambers.

TRAWLER CREW IS MISSING
British Fishing Vessel, With Eleven Aboard, Smashed on Rocky Shore

London, Sept. 25.—A fierce storm which whipped the North Sea pounded the trawler Skogness to pieces to-day on the jagged rocks of Speeton Cliff, near Bridlington, and all hope was abandoned for the craft's crew of eleven.

Coastguardsmen tried in vain to rescue the men from the trawler with rocket lines. Seeing lights aboard the doomed vessel over the cliff, they launched three lifeboats in the raging sea, but failed to approach the craft.

Later, coastguardsmen standing on the cliff succeeded in shooting a line over the Skogness, but there were then no signs of life aboard the trawler, and no one came on deck to make fast the line.

The sudden return of last week's gale whipped up high seas on the English Channel, as well as the North Sea, driving ships to ports for shelter.

A heavy rainstorm reduced visibility to a few yards.

ETHIOPIANS MOBILIZING
London, Sept. 25.—The Exchange Telegraph Agency correspondent at Addis Ababa reported to-day Emperor Haile Selassie had ordered a general mobilization of Ethiopian troops.

Previous to The Exchange Telegraph report, Londoners had read in one morning newspaper that the Emperor had ordered a general mobilization to meet the threat of Italian soldiers massing in Eritrea, but no other report from any source had confirmed this story.

According to The Exchange Telegraph, the official document ordering mobilization was signed not only by the Emperor but by the Abuna—the Archbishop of Ethiopia.

Previous Record Number of Candidates for Commons Exceeded by 103; Sixteen Party Designations

Toronto, Sept. 25.—For the 245 seats in the House of Commons to be filled October 14, candidates so far named total 747, as follows: Liberals 226, Conservatives 205, Reconstruction 136, C.C.F. 122, and others fifty-eight. This is the highest total since Confederation, the previous record having been 644 in the 1921 general election.

SIXTEEN DESIGNATIONS
Worry and speculation may bulk large in the trials of seekers after public office, but in the Dominion general election the voters themselves will do considerable mental calisthenics when confronted with an array of sixteen party designations.

With 747 candidates already named, the list includes in addition to the Liberal, Conservative and Reconstruction parties, the United Farmers of Canada, the United Farmers of Ontario-Labor, the Social Credit, Communist and Socialist.

TECHNOCRAT NAMED
And something new in the line of party candidates entered the campaign picture yesterday in Alberta. That land of political surprises. A technocrat was nominated in Athabasca, probably the only one in the whole of Canada.

The new-born Social Credit Party that swept the provincial election in Alberta has named candidates in every province west of Manitoba.

Two political entities have disappeared from the federal field. The United Farmers of Alberta group is now directly under the C.C.F. label. There is no "straight" Progressive. Miss Agnes MacPhail, so designated previously, is now under a "United Farmers of Ontario-Labor" banner. There still remain a few Liberal-Progressive candidates.

NEW ANGLES IN TRADE PACT
U.S. Minister Called From Ottawa to Washington; Discusses Reciprocity

Washington, Sept. 25.—Norman Armour, United States Minister to Canada, has been called to Washington, it was learned to-day, to discuss phases of the proposed United States-Canadian reciprocal trade pact.

William Phillips, Under-Secretary of State, told reporters that Mr. Armour had been recalled to discuss features of the proposed pact, but declined to say exactly what the discussion had been.

The proposed pact is designed to expand trade between the two countries through mutual reductions in tariffs and elimination of trade barriers. The State Department officials said, however, that it was expected to be some time yet before it would be possible to conclude the agreement.

HEAVY LOSSES IN DOCK FIRE
Eight Hurt and $3,500,000 of Goods Destroyed in Sydney, Australia

Canadian Press from Reuter's Sydney, Australia, Sept. 25.—Eight persons were injured and property valued at $3,500,000 was destroyed when fire swept through Darling Harbor to-day.

The blaze, of unknown origin, destroyed 30,000 bales of cotton in the Goldborough Mart and Pymont wool stores. The damage to property and stores of cotton and wool was estimated at $750,000, fully covered by insurance.

Those injured were buried when a wall fell on a nearby railway line, setting fire to a number of railway cars and a footbridge.

Two hundred firemen fought the blaze.

POPE TO MAKE PEACE APPEAL
Associated Press
Castel Gandolfo, Sept. 25.—Prelates of the Vatican said to-day Pope Pius's radio address to the United States to-morrow closing the Eucharistic Congress at Cleveland, Ohio, probably would include an appeal for world peace.

They said the Pope, who, in his summer residence, is carefully following the political and military developments of the world, will in all likelihood carry a step further his speech delivered to ex-servicemen two weeks ago.

On that occasion he pleaded for "peace with justice."

The Pope's broadcast will begin at 10:45 p.m. (1:45 p.m. P.S.T.). He will speak in Latin.

It was announced in New York that the broadcast will be carried on both the major networks of the United States.

NEW SPANISH CABINET NAMED
Associated Press
Madrid, Sept. 25.—Joaquin Chapaprieta, former minister of finance, to-day announced the formation of a new Spanish cabinet with himself as Premier and retaining the finance portfolio.

It represents a compromise between the wide coalition "political truth" cabinet demanded by the President and the desire of centre and rightist parties for a government based entirely on the Llovizna ministry which resigned last week.

FORTY-ONE FOR NEW SCHOOL

Boys and Girls From England Arrive on Island for Fairbridge Institution

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Weary from thousands of miles of travel but not too tired to show excitement at the prospect of a new life in a new land, forty-one boys and girls from Great Britain arrived to-day on the last lap of their journey to the Prince of Wales Fairbridge Farm School on Vancouver Island, near Duncan.

Ranging in age from eight to twelve years, the party comprised twenty-nine boys and twelve girls. They traveled here under the supervision of R. R. Beauchamp of New Zealand, and J. Robertson, a South African Rhodes scholar. They proceeded to-day by boat to Nanaimo.

The party was welcomed by Rev. Arthur G. B. West of London, rector of St. Dunstan-in-the-East, who preceded the children here and inspected the school.

FROM CITIES
In dress and speech the children are thoroughly English. They come from Newcastle, Birmingham, London and Glasgow. The boys are dressed in brown caps and brown coats and suits with orange and brown ties. Blue dresses and coats and broad-brimmed hats are worn by the girls.

As candidates for the Fairbridge Farm, the children are drawn from many walks of life. Some are orphans who have been adopted; others are children of army officers, and a few are from homes considered "unstable."

The students at the school are given a thorough training in agriculture or domestic studies and, when they are between the ages of sixteen and eighteen, they leave the school for work.

An arrangement is made with the employer that half the wages must be forwarded to the school to be placed to the credit of the Fairbridge's account, which accumulates with interest. Reports of their progress are forwarded to London and copies given to parents or guardians.

SCHOOL IS HOME
Fairbridge children may always return to the farm school as a home although the connection usually ceases officially at the age of twenty-one.

Studies are only part of the school's curriculum. Sports are an important part of the education and athletic competitions are arranged.

The Fairbridge schools have proved successful in Australia and it is hoped the Duncan school, the first in Canada, will be similarly successful.

League Council in Great Test To-morrow

"Italy and the League are miles apart," was the comment of one delegate, and the impression prevails generally that the Italian memorandum breathes a determination—even if belied—to take possession of Ethiopia, to be achieved by military occupation.

The delegates were especially struck by the phrase that "the Ethiopian problem cannot be settled by means of the League covenant."

NEW COMMITTEE PLAN
Reports circulated in League lobbies the formation of a new committee to include all members of the Council except Italy and Ethiopia would be considered.

With the formation of such a committee, the Council technically would adjourn, leaving committee members to watch developments and submit a report at the strategic moment.

The fact this report—probably containing recommendations as to sanctions against an aggressor nation—would be hanging in the air ready to be submitted and adopted formally, might, it was pointed out by observers, exercise a restraining influence.

This report was in circulation as Premier Laval of France, Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden of Great Britain, Salvador de Madariaga of Spain and J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League, held a brief conference.

DOCUMENT MADE PUBLIC
Italy's statement on the committee of five was included in a document issued to-day by the League. The document presented a historical narrative of the committee's activities, including the text of the League's programme for peace in East Africa, Ethiopia's reply in acceptance and Italy's "observations" which constituted rejection.

In its observations, Italy said the committee had not considered whether Ethiopia was still worthy to belong to the League when it had not fulfilled its obligations and had openly violated others.

POINTS STATED
The observations said Italy's memorandum to the League on the Ethiopian conflict demonstrated that if the committee's efforts at conciliation were to be at all satisfactory the Ethiopian problems should have been put in this form:

(1) The Ethiopian state, properly so-called, should be placed in such a position that it can do no injury to its neighbors, and its administration should be reformed so as to raise the country to a higher level of civilization.

(2) The different peoples which are subject to tyranny in Ethiopia and live on frontiers of the country under inhuman conditions should be rescued therefrom.

"BARBARISM" SEEN
"In the case of a country where conditions of barbarism are accompanied by powerful modern armaments, international supervisions cannot be regarded as a solution to aims that must be pursued both by the League, as a last effort to lift Ethiopia to a higher degree of civilization, and by Italy who sees in Ethiopia her special, most dangerous enemy," the memorandum said.

Italy contended the Ethiopian question could not be settled through means provided by the League covenant.

Italy charged the conciliation committee had failed to take realities into account, saying it had completely ignored the question of defence of Italian colonies. Italy's mission in Africa, and did not bear in

HIGHER TAXES FOR ROUMANIA

Constanza, Roumania, Sept. 25.—Premier Nicholas Tarescu to-day proposed a sharp increase in national taxes to permit extensive armament purchases and improvements in the Roumanian army.

"I am willing to sacrifice political popularity if it is necessary to raise money for adequate defence," the Premier said. "In the present precarious international situation, it is my duty to see Roumania is prepared."

TERITORIAL OFFER
Italy characterized the offer by Britain and France of territorial adjustments as a renewal of the proposal to give Ethiopia an outlet to the sea.

"The Italian government is forced definitely to oppose these proposals. Such a solution makes Ethiopia into a maritime power, thus heightening the real threat that she constitutes to Italy," the memorandum said.

"The committee should have considered the territorial rights granted to Italy by the tripartite treaty, namely, the right to a junction between the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland to the west of Addis Ababa."

POLICY OF PATIENCE
Rome, Sept. 25.—The Djibouti, French Somaliland, correspondent of the Stefani (Italian) News Agency to-day reported Ethiopia had closed to commerce its frontier with Eritrea, Italian colony.

Meanwhile Italian officials adopted a policy of "patience."

"The next move is up to the League of Nations," said government spokesmen.

One spokesman expressed a belief the Italo-Ethiopian problem could be discussed further under many articles of the League covenant—among them those referring to territorial integrity, social regulations, statutes and League membership privileges—before Italy would need to break with the League.

The cabinet decided to meet again Saturday.

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Addis Ababa, Sept. 25.—Emperor Haile Selassie to-day requested the League of Nations to dispatch impartial observers to Ethiopia to investigate present and future allegations of aggression and provocative acts and to fix responsibility in such cases.

The Emperor's request was made at the suggestion of Prof. Gaston Jéze, the French lawyer who has acted as one of Ethiopia's representatives at Geneva.

His Majesty assured the League he would give an inquiry within Ethiopia the fullest collaboration and would accept the commission's findings.

He recalled to the League that, months ago, he had ordered troops withdrawn twenty miles from the frontier to prevent incidents which might give Italy a pretext for attack and emphasized that these orders were carried out fully.

All able-bodied warriors of Ethiopia's northern provinces advanced to-day toward the Eritrean front.

The movement, in no sense a general mobilization, was a routine operation contemplated when the soldiers had been permitted to return to their homes while rains made the country impassable.

The troops, many of them with new rifles issued from local depots, moved in their customary irregular fashion, converging with their mules and their horses on the large bases in the mountains guarding the approaches from Italy's colony of Eritrea.

The movement now in progress would erect a continuous barrier astride the passes facing the Italians.

New York, Sept. 25 (Associated Press).—U.S. District Attorney F. W. H. Adams said to-day that William J. Graham and James C. McKay, Reno, Nevada, promoters whose mail fraud and conspiracy ended in jury disagreement last Friday, will be tried again.

Three Aspects of Retail Credit Told

Victoria Credit Granters' Association Held Annual Fall Banquet at Empress Yesterday, With 240 Attending

Before 240 business men and women, three widely different aspects of the credit side of retail trade were expounded yesterday evening by three speakers in the ball room of the Empress Hotel. The occasion was the annual fall banquet of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association.

The speakers were B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Victoria Times; Frederick Young, Portland, chairman of the research branch of the United States National Retail Credit Association; and Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor for British Columbia.

Prospects of the retail business for the coming year were considered by the first speaker, and his conclusions were hopeful.

Discussing any powers as a prophet, he stated that facts readily observable to day pointed to a steady continuance of the recovery already under way.

Business, as all the affairs of men and women, he said, had its sunshine and its shade. In the physical configuration of the world, in the health of men, and in all things in the life of men there were ups and downs. At the present time society seemed to be emerging from the down end of the cycle.

Provided that the war clouds dispersed, or that the conflict remained localized, and provided that government policy maintained the same course of enforcing social justice and fair play without exaggerated individual interference in business—without damming up the resources, the sagacity and confidence of the business man—the prospects were of the brightest.

"Progress has always arisen out of adversity, out of the testing in the furnace," he said.

GREATER CONFIDENCE

A plea for yet greater confidence between retailer and consumer was voiced by Mr. Young, who with Mrs. Young made his first visit to Canada in order to attend the banquet.

Referring the word credit to its Latin origin, credo, "I believe," Mr. Young said, "That meaning surrounds your entire work. You must have confidence in the people with whom you are dealing, and they in you."

By the co-operation of credit granters in the past, credit had become free and safe. Yet further co-operation was required to extend still more widely the advantages of free-flowing credit.

The instinctive policy of business houses to tighten up their credit in hard times, and to open it up again in good ones was attacked by Mr. Young.

"I thoroughly believe that credit policy should not change with conditions," he said. "The safest piece of merchandise you can buy is an account receivable. . . . It is safe because the promise to pay of the average individual is the safest promise that exists."

To-day, said Mr. Young, the eastern states were already enjoying business conditions comparable to those of 1929. Shortly those conditions would reach this coast. He stressed the necessity that the retailers should be ready to make the fullest use of them when they arrived.

He urged the retailers not to get their noses so close to their business that they lost sight of new outlets, but rather to be ever on the watch for new possibilities of expansion, and to make the fullest use of the new markets opening before them.

LABOR AND CREDIT

Speaking on the subject of the stabilization of labor at an aid to credit granting Mr. Pearson stated that said all the hundred and one experiments of social credit, inflated credit and the like, one vital remedy for decreased purchasing power had been overlooked.

"We have too long neglected," he said, "to stabilize the purchasing power of our people by the stabilization of wages, hours of labor and working conditions generally."

A programme of the type which his department was introducing to the province was not a social one only, but an economic one as well. Lack of regularity in the conditions of labor was one of the greatest deterrents to the return of good business conditions.

Referring to the competitive system of business, the Minister of Labor stated that that system had been wonderful in its results, despite what had been said about it, by providing a stimulus to initiative. But it was possible for competition to go too far, and there was a stage at which co-operation in business became absolutely essential.

Speaking of the relationship between his work and that of the Credit Granters' Association, Mr. Pearson said that credit granting had two real purposes: first, as a simple convenience to make it easier for people to buy goods; and second and most important, as an economic solution to one of the chief problems of the world to-day, to expand the purchasing power of the buying public.

In the matter of this second purpose of credit granting, he warned against applying the business conceptions of 100 years ago to the present time. A century ago depreciable came about from shortage of goods. To-day they arose from a surplus.

Under such circumstances there could be no lasting prosperity so long as the greater part of the profits of business went onto the shelf in the form of dividends and capital investment instead of going into purchasing power.

The rapid progress of the Credit Granters' Association in Victoria was shown by O. M. Prentice, president of the association here, speaking as chairman of the banquet. Three years ago, he said, there were twelve members. Last August the figure stood at 104, and this year at 194.

Mr. Prentice briefly outlined the principles for which the Credit Granters stood, and the benefits accruing to business from those principles.

HONEST YOUTH IS REWARDED

New York, Sept. 25.—From the lowly plane of delivery boy of "coffee and—" at $3.15 a week, young Albert Corrieri has vaulted to a remunerative position in Wall Street.

Corrieri's role in "the street's" newest success story was cast when on Monday he picked from the gutter a package of bonds valued at $150,000 and returned them to the owners.

Yesterday C. F. Grunwald, vice-president of C. F. Childs and Co., Wall Street brokers, owners of the bonds, announced that Corrieri would start next Monday in the cashier's department of the brokerage firm.

Corrieri, who is twenty-two, may also get a reward.

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Lectures began at the University of British Columbia this morning for the fall term. Members of the freshman class were welcomed yesterday by President L. S. Kinck, Dean Daniel Buchanan of the Faculty of Arts and Science, and by Miss M. L. Bollett, Dean of Women.

The freshmen were joined later by students of other faculties in a general congregation in the auditorium for the formal opening of the university's fall term. The freshman class numbers approximately 400 students.

BRITAIN KEEPS FIRM COURSE

Cabinet Approves Acts of Its Spokesmen at Geneva on Ethiopia Dispute

London, Sept. 24.—The cabinet to-day approved the actions of its representatives at Geneva regarding the Italo-Ethiopian situation and decided to continue in the firm support of the League of Nations covenant.

An authoritative source, disclosing this action, said the cabinet had decided not to make any further decisions for the moment.

It was reported the ministers approved the dispatch of part of the Home Fleet to the Mediterranean as a precautionary step in view of the international situation.

It further decided, it was said, to continue the Imperial Defence Committee as a council of action with power to take all necessary steps to keep Great Britain prepared for emergencies.

The cabinet was adjourned, subject to call. No date was fixed for its next meeting, nor was any official announcement made of to-day's decisions.

FRIENDLY RESPONSE

It was said in authoritative quarters the personal message of Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, to Premier Mussolini, delivered yesterday evening by the British Ambassador at Rome, Sir Eric Drummond, had received a friendly response.

BOY CYCLIST LOSES HIS LIFE

New Westminster, Sept. 24.—Jack Brown, fourteen, was killed almost instantly and Angus Campbell, fourteen, suffered severe injuries yesterday when a bicycle on which the two boys were alleged to have been riding collided with a Surrey municipality school bus. Both boys resided near Fort Kells, B.C.

Police believed whoever was steering the bicycle lost control temporarily. Both boys were rushed to the Royal Columbian Hospital here. Young Brown was dead on arrival.

Angus Campbell is suffering from severe scalp wounds, a broken collar bone, broken right hand and other injuries.

No Concessions From Ethiopia

Louis de Bourbon Unable to Place Loans in Country

Addis Ababa, Sept. 24.—After years of obscurity, Prince Louis de Bourbon who claims to be a half-brother of former King Alfonso of Spain, turned up in this capital at the last weekend offering loans to Ethiopia and seeking concessions.

But he left yesterday, discouraged and empty-handed.

The prince remained in seclusion and under a disguise at an obscure hotel until the Associated Press correspondent, who knew him in Europe, discovered him. Then the prince admitted his identity and invited the correspondent to tea.

He explained he had come directly from Washington. Pressed for details, he said he represented a New York banker.

The prince said he had come to Ethiopia in response to an invitation from the government and, as proof, he exhibited a cablegram which he said was sent him in Athens by the Ethiopian foreign minister.

The cablegram read: "You may come at our expense."

To the prince's sorrow, however, the government said the little word "our" should have read "your."

Thereupon the prince bade farewell to Emperor Haile Selassie, whom he described as charming but lacking money. The prince departed for Harar, where he said he hoped to obtain funds to defray his return to Europe.

NO DETAILS

New York, Sept. 24.—Philip A. Batchker, associated with the stock exchange firm of Ernst and Company, said prince Louis de Bourbon represented him in efforts to obtain Ethiopian concessions.

Details of the negotiations were refused.

Japan Watches Soviet Move

Reports Say Chinese Turkestan Is to Be Communist State

Tokyo, Sept. 25.—Reports a "Turkestan Soviet Republic" was about to be established in Sinkiang, China's great northwestern province known as Chinese Turkestan, have been given prominence by several vernacular newspapers.

The reports were attributed to unidentified "reliable sources," understood to be the Japanese army intelligence service.

The Japanese government was described as taking a serious view of the reports, believing the development threatened to extend the Soviet influence to regions adjacent to the Japanese protected state of Manchukuo.

Establishment of such a republic would permit Moscow to exercise a dominance over Sinkiang province similar to that already gained in Outer Mongolia.

ROVER DIES IN LONELY SHACK

Robert Ferguson Succumbs in 83rd Year at Vauxhall, Alberta

Vauxhall, Alta., Sept. 25.—A rover of the seas who called himself a "tough guy," Robert Ferguson, eighty-two, is dead. An adventurer, who had often said he was stolen from his eastern Canada home when three years old by gypsies, only to be traded to another nomad band, Ferguson ended his days in a lonely shack on the outskirts of Vauxhall. He had been dead two weeks when the body was found. A heart ailment caused death.

He never disclosed the name of his birthplace in the east, but he told of his experiences in the United States, especially in the hardened Chicago stockyards district, as a young man. There he was a bare-knuckle fighter, remembering the days of Sullivan and Kilrain. He had traveled to world ports on cattle ships.

After his roving days were over he came to western Canada as a jack-of-all trades, finally settling in the little shack here. His only source of income was an old age pension.

Bishop Is Not To Be Chairman

Calgary, Sept. 25.—Because Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, in Canada preaching the doctrines of Social Credit, has "apparently allied himself with a definite political party," Rt. Rev. I. Ralph Sherman, Anglican Bishop of Calgary, has declined to act as chairman of a meeting of the English churchman scheduled to address here Saturday evening.

In announcing he had declined an invitation to act as chairman, Bishop Sherman said: "I thought the Dean of Canterbury, as he neared the confines of Alberta, would make it abundantly clear he was not immediately concerned with our particular provincial political problems."

In Winnipeg Monday evening the Dean, in an interview, is reported to have declared himself in complete accord with the policies of Premier Abernethy of Alberta. He predicted the "doctrines of the Abernethy Party will eventually sweep all of Canada."

LUCKNOW CELEBRATION

London, Sept. 25.—Ten people in different parts of the world to-day celebrated one of the most thrilling incidents in the modern history of the British Empire, the Siege of Lucknow in the Indian Mutiny.

The oldest survivor of the siege is C. G. Palmer, a resident of British Columbia, the youngest, Arthur Dashwood, seventy-eight, living in London. Dashwood's mother gave him birth in the residency at Lucknow, where seventeen people were herded in one room during the siege. Despite her ordeal, Mrs. Dashwood lived for more than seventy years.

Alaska Scenery Charms Artist

Ketchikan, Alaska, Sept. 25.—Touring Alaska to study color for a painting involving Alaska scenery, Rockwell Kent, noted illustrator, said here yesterday that if the rest of Alaska had developed as with Ketchikan he is going to send his son north to "make his start in this real country."

Mr. Kent last visited Ketchikan during World War days, seventeen years ago, and recalled that while writing a book, "Wilderness," on Fox Island a group annoyed him with their suspicions he was a German spy mapping the island.

FATHER TOO LATE TO SEE DAUGHTER

Seattle, Sept. 25.—Rhea Castleton, fifteen-year-old high school student, died at a hospital yesterday, without regaining consciousness long enough to recognize her father, who had made the long trip from Nome, Alaska, by airplane, to be at her bedside.

Her father, William A. Castleton, Nome mine manager, started a race with death when he learned that his daughter was suffering from a ruptured appendix.

He flew from Nome to Fairbanks, then to Juneau, Ketchikan and Seattle, arriving here early to-day. He was at his daughter's bedside when she succumbed.

MORE RAILWAY TRAFFIC URGED

Stevens Says 'Higher Farm Prices Would Aid in Solving Problem

Brookville, Ont., Sept. 25.—No amalgamation or unification will solve Canada's railway problem, but more traffic, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party leader, asserted here yesterday evening when addressing a meeting.

"The railway problem does not require throwing a lot of men out of work," he said. But if it was to be solved, purchasing power of Canadians must be increased. The way to increase purchasing power was to pay the farmers fair prices, the workers fair wages, and set unemployed to work.

"I don't see why we should not have a fuel policy which is also a railway policy," Mr. Stevens told his Brookville audience. In Alberta, British Columbia, and the Maritime Provinces, coal was abundant. Set unemployed men to work producing the coal, provide freight rates which would permit it to be moved into the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec and one important step would have been taken toward solving the railway traffic problem.

"Stanley McLean, head of Canada Packers Limited, is the real Minister of Agriculture as far as livestock regulations are concerned," Mr. Stevens declared in discussing prices paid farmers for cattle and hogs. It was about time Canada shook herself from domination of this industry by private interests, he said.

EMPIRE TRADE

MR. BENNETT SAID IN THE ROYAL Victoria Theatre last Saturday that if it had not been for the Ottawa pact negotiated at the Imperial Economic Conference in the summer of 1932 Canada would have been insolvent to-day.

While many people will take this assertion of Mr. Bennett with a very large grain of salt, it calls for more than perfunctory consideration in view of the facts and figures published by a department of the government over which Mr. Bennett presides. The following are the statistics of Canada's trade with the whole empire for the last fiscal year of the King regime, the first full year of the present government, and the year which ended last March 31:

Exports	$379,500,000	Imports	$282,600,000
Exports	$218,900,000	Imports	$147,800,000
Exports	$341,900,000	Imports	$157,100,000

The trade for the last fiscal year was worth $132,100,000 less than it was in 1930—and the empire trade pact has been in full operation for nearly three years. True, they have unquestionably been of considerable benefit, but how much more they would have benefited Canada and the rest of the empire if the tariff structure of the country had not been boosted sky high as soon as the present administration took office. Mr. Bennett has made much of the growth of trade between Canada and New Zealand under empire preferences. Take the New Zealand figures for 1930 and for the last four years. Here are:

Exports	$19,100,000	Imports	$16,200,000
Exports	$7,000,000	Imports	$1,080,000
Exports	$8,800,000	Imports	$45,000
Exports	$4,480,000	Imports	$2,500,000
Exports	$7,314,058	Imports	$2,979,000

Here are the statistics of Canada's trade with Australia for the same period:

Exports	$16,300,000	Imports	$4,200,000
Exports	$8,900,000	Imports	$5,900,000
Exports	$7,300,000	Imports	$5,900,000
Exports	$10,926,578	Imports	$5,515,262
Exports	$17,900,000	Imports	$6,331,000

Of the two southern Dominions, of course, New Zealand comes under an entirely different category in this comparison. It was the imposition of the prohibitive tariff on that country's butter by the Bennett government which brought an exchange of business worth $35,800,000 down to one of $6,145,000. For a time, it will be recalled, the two were treating one another economically as if they were foreign countries. And the fact remains that we are still $25,000,000 behind the 1930 figure!

Australia shows a gain from $20,500,000 to $24,200,000. But Canada did not find it necessary to fight with her because she was importing very little butter from that Dominion. The history of the butter controversy between Canada and New Zealand is too well known to need repetition here. Canada shut butter out by an eight-cent duty and New Zealand retaliated with a prohibitive duty on Canadian manufactured goods. All this, like the tariff conflict with Japan, added thousands to our unemployment figures. It is this condition which Mr. King can, and will, correct.

BEYOND US

AN AUSTRALIAN ARCHAEOLOGIST has discovered some fossils of a kangaroo and a wombat, and he tells us that their age is somewhere between 50,000 and 100,000 years.

Archaeologists seem to have a habit of fixing the age of "remains." Few of us ordinary mortals are interested in the age of the fossils of the kangaroo and the wombat; but the announcement of their discovery exhibits a reckless squandering of prehistoric time—of which there is plenty to throw about.

But supposing the question cropped up as to the age of a woman—some women are very sensitive about their age—and you were to suggest that she would be between thirty and ninety; as a joker you would never get to first base.

However, for the curved teeth in the lower jaw of a prehistoric wombat it would seem to be quite in order to put the date at anywhere between 10,000 and 10,000,000 B.C.

QUEBEC MANUFACTURES

QUEBEC STANDS SECOND IN MANU-factures among the provinces of Canada. It is exceeded only by Ontario. Textiles form the leading group of industries in the province of Quebec, but pulp and paper is the largest individual industry. The total value of the manufacturing output of the province in 1933 was practically unchanged from the year previous, but increases were reported in the textile group; in animal products and in chemicals. There were gains also in the gross production value of more than a dozen individual industries. About half of the total production of the province was reported from the city of Montreal.

The gross value of manufactures produced in the province of Quebec in 1933, according to a report recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, was $633,066,000. Reports were received from 8,384 establishments and the capital investment amounted to $1,648,872,000. The number of employees reported was 163,571 and the salaries and wages paid $141,358,000. The cost of materials used was $292,950,000 and the value added by manufacture $360,115,000. The gross value of the output in the previous year had been $668,417,000. There was an increase of 533 in the number of plants reporting and the capital investment rose by $15,916,000. Of the total capital reported in 1933, fixed capital invested in lands, buildings, machinery and tools amounted to $1,285,645,000.

"AMALGAMATION NEVER"

AMONG THE POLITICAL LEADERS who are now campaigning there are three of Conservative affiliation proclaiming diverse policies with regard to Canada's nationally-owned railway system.

Premier Bennett has abandoned his ringing declaration: "Amalgamation never: Competition ever!" After presenting the situation as a terrible one, instead of assuming responsibility, he now says he will submit the issue to an unnamed "Brain Trust," which ultimately would deliver everything into the hands of the C.P.R.

Hon. Dr. Manion takes issue with his own leader, absolutely opposing unification or amalgamation, emphasizing, with other reasons, that "a railway monopoly would be built up with sufficient numbers to menace the life of his government, through the immense voting power."

The memory of Mr. and Mrs. Public is not too short to recall that the same Dr. Manion, on assuming his portfolio as Minister of Railways, did everything in his power to wreck the Canadian National Railway organization.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, leading another Conservative wing, proposes a "zoned" system—back to the old days of the Intercolonial, Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern.

From Mr. King, however, we have the frank declaration that the Liberal party stands to-day, as it has always stood, for the preservation of the people's railway system as a publicly-owned and operated service. The Liberal party proposed to use its own brains, rather than shunt the responsibility onto a "Brain Trust" animated from St. James Street, in Montreal.

SMILE, SMILE, SMILE

IN A SMALL VILLAGE IN GREAT Britain a very unusual bequest of $250 each has been made to two persons solely on account of their cheerfulness. This fact has been noted by several commentators. One of them observes and asks questions as follows:

"Perhaps on principle—to him that hath shall be given. You look jolly. You'll look jollier still if you take $250.

"What about the downhearted? Shall we cheer them up with a windfall? Or do we feel that they would complain that it wasn't enough? Or perhaps $250 would be wasted on a born grouser.

"Look cheerful, even if you don't feel it. It helps others, and sometimes, though rarely, it pays."

We shall now proceed to walk down Fort Street wearing a broad grin and see what happens.

STAND BY THE FACTS

TRUE, THERE WAS AN ADVERSE trade balance against Canada in 1930, but there also was an external trade of more than $2,600,000,000.

Will it be seriously argued by any person who understands the rudiments of economics that it is better to have a favorable trade balance—to quote Conservative speakers—of $152,000,000 with a trade of less than half of what it was five years ago, than it was to have an adverse balance of less than $130,000,000, when our external trade had passed the two-and-one-half billion mark?

Nor let it be forgotten that five years ago the imports of Canada included a three-hundred-million-dollar tourist trade. To mix the argument up a bit, these were the imports which were really exports. They were the invisible sales which more than balanced our external trade.

The only way for Canada to get back on her economic feet is to expand her business with the countries of the world. Restriction in any form of business simply means economic suicide.

When Mr. Bennett assumed office, five years ago, he began to try to blast his way into the markets of the world. The most "successful" thing he did was to blast his way out of most of them.

Just Folks

by Edgar A. Guest

THE HERMIT
In every little move he made
He stopped to count the loss or gain.
It seemed to me he was afraid
Of dangers no one can explain;
As if across his path there lay
Long shadows black and ghastly grim
Which took his confidence away
And made a hermit out of him.

He stuffed his room with countless things
And all that he could ever see
Was that the future sometimes brings
The need when they would useful be.
He never dared to give away
One trinket from his dusty shelf.
Because he feared there'd come a day
When he might need it for himself.

He counted everything by what
Its market price was said to be.
The much or little mattered not;
The coin was all that he could see.
And so in time he grew to save
Odd bits of paper, wire and strings
And made himself a shackled slave
Unto the hollow worth of things.

The cost of friendship seemed too great
And so to all he closed his heart.
Men never ask a man they hate
In generous deeds to have a part.
And one day, breaking down his door,
Into the room the sheriff stepped
And found him, smothered, on the floor
Beneath the mass of things he'd kept.

Loose Ends

We perform our annual rite at Cowichan Bay. Every year, a salmon is sacrificed to the gods of the sea. The salmon is caught by a fisherman, and then it is cooked and eaten. The fisherman is then rewarded with a large sum of money. This is the end of the rite.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SOLEMN RITUAL

ONCE A YEAR, without fail, we go to Cowichan Bay to catch salmon. It is not a mere passing fancy with us, a day's outing, as it might be with you. To go to Cowichan Bay and catch salmon every year is, with us, a kind of rite, a solemn ritual, almost a sacrament. We have been going to Cowichan Bay to catch salmon every year since we can remember. It is a somewhat notable occasion when we go to Cowichan Bay because we hold the unparalleled, unbroken record among all Cowichan fishermen. We have gone to catch salmon all these years and have never caught one yet.

Yesterday we set out again. After all these years of failure one doesn't quite expect to catch a salmon. The first anticipation of the ordinary fishermen. One doesn't surge with excitement, or glory in the sport when one has been fishing for untold years for salmon and has never caught one. One goes rather with the subdued feeling of the pilgrim on his way to a shrine—not with any real hope of reward, but simply as a religious duty. One feels that, with all of 365 days in a year, catch salmon should be able to spare an afternoon to the poor salmon of Cowichan Bay, who, after all these years, undoubtedly must expect it. We have never let them down yet. (Nor have we pulled them up.)

POOR SOUL

EVERY YEAR our stout friend, Percy, comes over from Vancouver to take part in the rite. He is a real salmon fisherman who used to fish in Cowichan Bay before the war, not only that, but he claims to have caught fish in Cowichan Bay before the war. I did not know him then and cannot say whether his memory is reliable or not. But I can testify that in continual fishing since the war he has never caught any. He is the true pre-war fisherman, for his record since the war is unblemished by the destruction of a single marine life as Cowichan Bay. There is not a mark against it, not the memory of a single dead herring or flounder even. Let anyone else who can boast a similar blameless life come forward to challenge Percy's right to the championship.

It is a pleasant thing, but a little pathetic, to see his smile of anticipation as he comes off the Vancouver boat and asks how the salmon are running at Cowichan Bay; pathetic because he invariably contrives, by every means and date of his arrival every year, to arrive just as the very moment when the salmon are not running at Cowichan Bay. He has a positive genius for avoiding them. I dare say, with his skill at avoiding them, it would be easier for a salmon to catch Percy than for Percy to catch a salmon. If the process goes on long enough you will probably read in the newspapers an interesting variation of the old story about a man biting a dog. You will read that a salmon has caught Percy at last.

And with what a childlike innocence he shows the new spoons, rods, and gaffs he has bought this year. None of last year's equipment, of course, was ever touched by a fish, was ever subjected to the strain of even a grilse's bite. But he goes out every season and buys new stuff and displays it with a harmless delight to all who will look at it. Percy at Cowichan Bay often break down and weep at this tragic spectacle.

We have calculated that Percy's salmon have cost $500 apiece, counting his rods and sandwiches; that is, Percy's salmon will cost $500 apiece by the end of this season if he ever catches one. If he doesn't catch one, for another year, of course, the total cost will go up another hundred dollars.

Kind you, that isn't bad as salmon go. I know a fellow who figures that each of his salmon caught at Campbell River cost him $100. A twenty-pound salmon for $100 works out at $5 a pound. You can buy it in the stores, all nicely cleaned and ready to cook, for 18 cents a pound. I believe, I have always calculated that trout have cost me about $5 apiece, which is expensive enough, but salmon costs higher because they are larger—that is, if you catch any. But, as Percy says, when you don't catch any, you can't say that your salmon have cost you anything. With him catching salmon is the most economical sport in the world.

GOOD SIGNS

WELL, we set out on the calm waters of Cowichan Bay as usual. "Ah," says Percy, with a metallic glint in his experienced fisherman's eye, "the salmon are rolling." (The word "rolling" is a fisherman's term, where you and I would say "jumping," and distinguishes the real expert.) "The salmon," says Percy, "are rolling. That's a good sign."

"Yes," says the lady in the bow, who is inclined to pessimism after all these years, "but they were rolling last year and we never caught any."

"Ah, yes," says Percy, with perfect logic, "but you remember in 1931 they weren't rolling and that year we never caught any either. That year we never saw any. It must be a good sign when they're rolling. We're sure to catch one to-day."

The second "rolling" of the salmon in the bow, who is growing a little cynical, "would be too much at our time of life."

"You are not in any danger," I assured her. I will not tell you how we rowed up and down until our arms almost fell off; how we caught seaweed and the bottom; how we watched the salmon leap all about the boat, but never once into it, grinning as they came up, with an audible laugh at their old friend, Percy, for some of them have been his friends since the pre-war days. There is always this comfort about fishing at Cowichan Bay in the fall—the darkness comes early and you can row in to dinner before you are chilled to death. So we roll in our lines.

NO FISH

OBVIOUSLY, says Percy, "no fish are biting to-day and none were caught. Ah, well, it is a pleasant surprise. After all, it is all right to go fishing once in a while without without catching a fish."

"Yes, but did you ever think," murmured the lady in the bow, "that it might be all right to go fishing once in a while and catch a fish. I don't mean to make a habit of it, but just as a sort of desperate experiment."

"I think I'll have a little rum ration," says Percy. "There were no fish taken out of the bay by anyone to-day."

But as we land at the wharf it is fairly sure under the load of salmon that everybody else has caught. Every other boat has several fine Springers and a Cohoe or two. Percy surreys them sadly for a while but without complaint. After all, he is used to this. He has survived them like that for so many years—ever since the war. It must be comforting to him to realize that he can buy good salmon in the Vancouver stores at 18 cents a pound when his uncaught salmon cost about $100 apiece.

In the inn by the water these evenings, everyone is happy, except us. Everyone has landed a large fish. One old gentleman, who has devoted his career to fishing for salmon at Cowichan Bay, has landed a twenty-pounder on a six-ounce fly rod and likes to say that he was pure luck. In order that he may hear you insist that it was pure skill.

There are fishermen from everywhere, come to wait for the great Cohoe run, which may start any minute. There is a veritable civilization built at Cowichan Bay on the Springers and Cohoes. These are fellows who live only to catch salmon, a fine career for any man. I suppose there are some other useful pursuits and professions to which a man can devote his life, but you wouldn't think so at Cowichan Bay. Anything less than a salmon is unworthy of these noble practitioners.

The tides of economics and politics and war may swirl in the outer world. Here the only question is whether the Cohoe are coming in on the sea tide in the morning. It is a native island culture, a culture built on salmon, on Cowichan seaweed, on Tommy Mack spoons, bucktail flies and a has learned to look for Beethoven melody in every bar of the 'emotional' Ninth Symphony."

Theruppon G.J.D. presents seven bars of single notes from the "Ninth," which, when divorced from their component orchestral parts, are merely a horrible combination, mostly of diminished thirds and sevenths, which sound, when played on the violin as advised, exactly like a cat fight.

Things growing greater grow more simple. The transcendent themes of the immortal "Ninth" are so simple as to be easily grasped by the most untrained ear.

"ELECTION TIME"

To the Editor:—Well, Mr. Bennett has been and gone. His speech was a masterpiece of accusations against Mackenzie King. That gentleman does not seem to mind, as he states Mr. Bennett's time is up and that we, or most of us, believe.

The local candidate for Tory honors once stated that Mr. Bennett did most things off his own bat and that the rank and file could make no impression. Well, if that be true why does he want to us support him? Moreover Victoria wants this city represented by some one who will keep her on the map, as well as the province.

Take your mind back to 1930 when the Premier made statements that he would end unemployment and many other things. You know best if that promise was kept or not.

Take this tip and digest it: the future will be better kept or else there will be a grievous error made, and the depression since 1929 has not been lost on anyone. There is no doubt that the country will go the way we want it this time when such men as Mitchell Hepburn are

WORK, NOT DOLES

Mr. Bennett at Sydney, N.S., July 7, 1930

Unemployment is steadily increasing in Canada. Industry is languishing for lack of protection. There are between twelve and fifteen thousand unemployed in Winnipeg, and others elsewhere throughout Canada.

If the Conservative Party comes into power on July 28 I propose at the earliest moment to call Parliament together so that we may find a speedy remedy for this situation and decide on means to provide work for Canadians.

Work, I said, dot doles. The Canadian workmen want work, not charity. Construction of a great national highway to which our party is definitely committed, would materially assist in providing a practical solution to this problem.

Health Insurance Group Finish Here

Hearings Committee Moves Up-Island this week; Wide Variety of Viewpoints Presented; Principle Is Favored Generally

After two days of sessions in which the draft bill was canvassed from practically every viewpoint, the provincial government's hearings committee on public health insurance prepared to-day to move up-island to Nanaimo and Alberni.

The Victoria hearing closed yesterday afternoon with testimony from a score of witnesses on file.

The briefs presented gave opinions both for and against the measure prepared by the government, but with hardly any exception, all favored the principle of some kind of health insurance.

It was clearly indicated in remarks of the attending cabinet ministers that revision and modification of the bill will be made before it goes back to the Legislature next session. Intended in the first place as a basis for public discussion the measure has been carefully analysed from all sides.

BUILDERS OPPOSED

Views of the Building and Construction Industries Exchange of British Columbia and the Victoria Builders' Exchange were presented in a brief by R. Leckie of Vancouver and James Parfitt of Victoria.

They were definitely against putting health insurance into force at the present time.

"This is no time to further burden industry generally," the brief said, "and the construction industry in particular with additional costs considering the depressed and difficult times they have experienced during the last four or five years."

"It would be the height of folly to place any further load on it at the present time."

BIG LEVY ON WAGE

From 80 to 85 per cent of the cost of construction goes in wages so that a 2 per cent levy on employees for health insurance would become a formidable item, it was claimed. Similarly a tax of 3 per cent on labor, it was felt, would be drastic in view of the meagre earnings of those in construction jobs.

"When industry is on a normal basis and we are in a prosperous condition, there is no industry probably which could carry such a burden more easily than the construction industry, but at the present time, it is probably for a considerable time to come, it would seem to us to be a very unwise thing to attempt to put such legislation into force and these exchanges desire very emphatically to oppose such a move."

OAK BAY ATTACKS

Oak Bay municipality made the outright request that the entire insurance plan be dropped.

In an analysis of the draft bill and memorandum, it was first stated that the scheme would cost Oak Bay $2,100 a year which must come out of taxes. Secondly the prospect of a new hold-back out of employees' wages was not a promising one, especially when the element of compulsion entered.

While the levy on payrolls for the insurance fund estimated to provide $6,400,000, the department of labor's own records indicated that it would fall $2,200,000 short of this total.

The suggestion that the scheme would ensure payment of doctors' and hospital bills "largely on behalf of people who are not paying them at present" would imply that as a general rule 71 per cent of the population did not pay their medical bills. In light of this the reliability of the memorandum became questionable.

MORE OFFICIALS

The scheme involved creation of another group of government officials which would eventually mean added taxation, it was argued. Furthermore it made no provision for reducing municipal contributions to hospitals.

"The experience of the taxpayer over mothers' pensions and superannuation does not inspire confidence in the rosy predictions of well-meaning enthusiasts. Usually they prove to be mistaken. In the present case, there is a strong presumption that either the scheme will prove more costly than anticipated or the benefits will fall far short of those promised," the Oak Bay Council claimed.

R. F. Blandy, Oak Bay Municipal clerk, submitted a special argument relative to the operation of the plan in rural municipalities. He felt an unjust burden would be imposed on landowners in these areas.

MATERNITY BENEFIT

A suggestion for maternity benefits was offered by Dr. A. G. Price, former medical health officer. His plan would provide each mother with $50 at birth of a child and another $50 when the child was a year old.

Frank Le Roy, speaking for fraternal societies, including the Eagles, Moose, Foresters, E. of F. and the Maccabees, said the proposed bill placed too great a burden on the insured when compared with the fraternal society schemes which, for $1 a month, provided limited medical and hospital services. He felt that members of these societies should be given consideration under the state plan.

EMPLOYEES' VIEW

Appearing for the Hudson's Bay Company's employees' sick benefit association of Vancouver, and similar organization of David Spencer Ltd., and Woodwards Ltd., of Vancouver, M. Low contended the bill imposed too large a burden on wage-earners. He thought the employers would pass their share onto the employees who would then have to bear the whole cost. Under their private plan, for twenty-five cents a month, medical and dental examinations were provided and half pay up to six weeks' sickness allowed, as well as attendance of a nurse in the home.

Miss A. Cressor, supervisor of the Victoria Order of Nurses; Dr. A. K. Haywood, superintendent of the Vancouver General Hospital, and Miss Mary McCusig, western supervisor of the V.O.N., also appeared before the committee.

FORMER R.C.M.P. MAN SUCCUMBS

Southern Pines, N.C., Sept. 23.—Joseph W. Fuller, seventy-two, ex-convict, one-time Royal Canadian Mounted and veteran of the Boer and Great Wars, died here yesterday of blood poisoning which developed from a cut.

Born in Montana, Fuller wrangled horses, joined the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and volunteered with a Canadian unit for service in the Boer War. He served with an engineering company of the American Expeditionary Force during the Great War and was wounded and gassed.

Fuller came here some twelve years ago and at his death was manager of the estate of the late James Barber, shipping magnate.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

EPIC OF FINLAND

ONE HUNDRED years ago the Finnish educator, Elias Lönnrot, traveled through the countryside of Finland and collected the legends and songs of his people. After two years of travel he put together these folk songs into one great national epic, called Kalevala, which was published early in 1835.

In this lengthy poem lies the tradition of the people of Finland. It includes stories of heroic adventure, of romance and of racial ambitions. The music of the great Finnish composer, Jean Sibelius, was influenced by it. It has been immortalized in many great paintings, and has been translated into twelve languages.

Early in 1935 a set of three stamps was issued commemorating the 100th anniversary of the publication of Kalevala. The one shown here illustrates the departure of Kullervo, heroic avenger of the death of his father and the sufferings of his family in a feud.

PROFESSORS ARE RAPPED

Plunkett Says They Are Unable to Put Theories Into Effect

Professors in government were roundly scored by D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria, in an election address given last night at the Rex Theatre, Esquimalt.

There were about 200 people present. W. J. Cox, president of the Esquimalt Conservative Association, presided. Hugh Allan, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, was on the platform.

Other speakers were Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown and W. A. McKenzie, former minister of mines in the Toimie government.

"Do they ever give you the details they intend to incorporate in their legislation?" asked Mr. Plunkett in dealing with utterances by Professor J. King Gordon and Mrs. Grace Macdonald at the Victoria West meeting on Monday night.

Professors, he asserted, were good at theorizing, but their policies did not always work out in practice. He attributed the failure of the New Deal policy in the United States to the professors which President Roosevelt had gathered about him in an advisory capacity.

The appearance of Col. Cy Peck, V.C., former Conservative member for the Islands and late of the pensions tribunal, at later meetings, also aroused the fire of Mr. Plunkett.

Efforts had been made, the speaker said, to keep pensions out of politics, and it was regrettable that Col. Peck had introduced the controversy into the campaign.

"There is one thing I want to say concerning Col. Cy Peck, and I don't intend to mention the matter again at any time during the campaign," said Mr. Plunkett. "For three years, Col. Peck was on the pensions tribunal, and during that time he was paid $36,317, $12,100 a year, or $1,000 a month, covering salary, bonus and traveling expenses."

IMAGINATION SUPREME

Mr. Plunkett went on to speak of the "imagination supreme" of those seeking election to office.

Mackenzie King said the speaker was never at a loss for some idea to scare the people into voting for him and his party. He termed Premier Bennett an autocrat, and yet in the same words, he asked that power himself, making reference to the appeal of the Liberal leader for a majority to control the Senate. Mr. Plunkett urged his hearers to go to the Royal Victoria Theatre on Friday night to hear Mackenzie King, compare him with R. B. Bennett, and then vote for the man whom they thought best to control the destinies of the country.

Again leveling his shafts at Prof. King Gordon, Mr. Plunkett said, dealing with the housing scheme, "You would think all the heartiest good-natured men in the hands of the C.C.F." Mr. Plunkett charged that the C.C.F. was definitely aligned with the Communists.

He made reference to the "organized disturbance" at the Bennett meeting and said that people responsible for disturbances at political meetings should be properly disciplined.

"For, behind 'it all,' he said, 'is organized revolution.' Turning his attention to the railways, Mr. Plunkett asserted that the Liberal Government had used the Canadian National Railway as a political machine in order to get votes.

Millions of dollars were being paid out to keep the railways going. The country, he said, could not continue to carry the staggering load.

PRODIGAL PROVISIONS

The four western provinces were likened by Mr. Plunkett to the prodigal son, the only difference being that the prodigal came back and admitted his shortcomings.

He attacked what he called the spendthrift policies of the western provinces.

"They think the well will never go dry, he said, concerning the frequent application to Ottawa for loans.

SUTHERLAND BROWN

Brigadier Sutherland Brown dealt with railways, pensions, the Lawrence Waterway and the navy and the militia.

He laid the blame for the state of the railways upon Mackenzie King and the late Sir Henry Thornton. The Bennett Government, he said, held no brief for the C.P.R., except that it regarded it as a great institution.

On the subject of pensions, during which he was critical of Col. Cy Peck, Brigadier Brown admitted that the Veterans' Allowance Act was one of the "finest pieces of business" the Liberal government had introduced, and it had been supported by the Conservatives.

Touching on the St. Lawrence waterway scheme, the Brigadier thought Bennett was the man to see that Canada's birthright was not sacrificed to the United States.

Linking Esquimalt with purposes of defence, the Brigadier asserted that Canada's navy and militia was too small. He appealed for adequate maintenance of both arms of defence and the lessening of the burden on John Bull's shoulders.

W. A. MCKENZIE

Mr. McKenzie took a fling at Premier Mitchell Hepburn and said the Ontario premier failed to convince him that he was a good friend of Victoria. Relative to the refunding of domestic loans in Canada, affecting the provinces and municipalities, he said, had claimed it "couldn't be done." Bennett, thought Mr. McKenzie, would be doing a fine thing if he could bring it about.

The speaker rallied against Premier Pattullo and the cost of his radio speeches, saying they were paid for by the people and were not listened to.

He went after Alan Chambers and others who were advocating closing up the unemployment camps and putting the men to work. He said there were men in the camps who would never be absorbed because they were not physically fit.

PEARSON PRAISED

Mr. McKenzie spoke favorably of the provincial scheme to develop boys in forestry work and congratulated the Minister of Mines on his efforts in this regard. He defended the Marketing Act, saying the act had been working satisfactorily and that the opposition to it in Vancouver came mostly from Orientals.

He spoke in support of the Farmers' Credit Arrangement Act, which had been responsible for the saving to the farmers of $2,000,000 in interest charges, and intimated that Bennett planned to extend it to cover urban areas for the protection of people who had mortgages on their homes.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEYS

As a former minister of mines, Mr. McKenzie spoke of the great development opened up through the geological surveys. There were 165 survey parties in all points of British Columbia totaling 900 men. He spoke of the opening up of the new mining areas in all sections of the country and said that the surveys were being directed now toward the locating of underground water reservoirs on the prairies.

TRADE WITH JAPAN

The trade dispute between Japan and Canada was introduced by Mr. McKenzie, who claimed the Liberals were making political capital out of it.

He spoke of the difference of the standard of living in Canada and Japan and enlarged upon the efforts of the Far Eastern country to develop its foreign markets at any cost. In illustration of this he said that bicycles which had cost from $30 to $50 to produce in this country were now produced in Japan for $2, and good watches were being manufactured there for the same price. The Japanese, he said, were paid two yen a day and worked long hours. Japan subsidized her ships and carried her goods to the world's markets free, Mr. McKenzie stated.

He said that the Japanese fished on this coast and ship-shipped fish out of the country in Japanese vessels. Japanese children were being educated in this country alongside Canadian children. "This Japanese question must be looked at in a broad light," he said.

Turning to the C.C.F. attitude on the Oriental question, Mr. McKenzie quoted Hansard on Woodsworth as saying that he was in favor of giving the franchise to Orientals in Canada.

Mr. McKenzie said there were upwards of 30,000 Orientals in British Columbia and added that the vegetable business was dominated by them.

Rev. Robert Connell had stated, he said, that it was only a matter of time before the Orientals would have the vote.

Uninvited, T. J. H. Van Oudenol walked to the platform as the meeting was closing and spoke in support of the Bennett administration.

Labor Minister Would Buy Store

Hon. George S. Pearson Confesses Private Ambitions At Credit Granters' Banquet

British Columbia has a cabinet minister whose chief ambition is to retire from political life and settle down as a retailer. His ambition is so strong that he has spent many hours cruising round the streets of Victoria looking for the ideal store to buy, and he believes that he has found it, although he refuses to reveal which store it is.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, made this confession of his ambitions at yesterday evening's annual fall banquet of the Victoria Credit Granters' Association at the Empress Hotel.

He considered the life of the retailer, he said, despite its many problems and its many ups and downs, as far preferable to what he termed "sitting in a comfortable chair over in the Parliament Buildings."

Mr. Pearson was afraid to reveal the store in question because he thought the purchase price would be raised if he did so, and his heart, he said, was really set on it.

C.C.F. DECLARES AGAINST WAR

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—J. S. Woods, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, seeking re-election in his home constituency of Winnipeg North Centre, which he has represented in Parliament since 1921, told a meeting here yesterday evening the C.C.F. was opposed to war and favored co-operative development to end necessity of war.

The attempts of Italy to win extension of power in Africa in its dispute with Ethiopia was a natural consequence of capitalism, he said. Peace was incompatible with the capitalist regime. Capitalism must be abolished if war is to be avoided, he declared. Success of Socialism in Sweden was given as an example of the application of sound Socialist principles developed to meet the needs of a particular nation. Mr. Woods said the C.C.F. sought its form of Socialism by constitutional means. It was absolutely opposed to violence.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Keep Out of Bed in the Morning! Wake Up Your Liver Bile! The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks pink. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmonize your system by taking Carter's Little Liver Pills. IMMIGRATION POLICY BLAMED

Chief Cause of Unemployed in Canada, Says Dickie

The chief cause of unemployment in Canada is to be found in the fact that too many people came to this country during the Liberal regime when an immigration policy was in effect, C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Nanaimo, told Spanish electors in his address at the Keating Temperance Hall yesterday evening.

The whole situation had been rectified by Mr. Bennett who, when he came into office, at once shut off excessive immigration, Mr. Dickie went on.

He also declared Mr. Bennett had also rectified the adverse trade balance against Canada, had saved Canada by getting the Ottawa trade agreements through, and had thus brought about the present wave of better times and prosperity for producers and all. He pointed to the rapidly increasing volume of trade on all sides and the drop in unemployment.

Mr. Dickie denied there were any wage slaves in British Columbia and praised the capitalistic system of government because it meant "personal ownership rather than exploitation."

"Capitalism," Mr. Dickie went on, "does not allow certain individuals to make millions overnight by stepping on the backs of others."

Mr. Dickie also said multi-millionaires were now much annoyed at Mr. Bennett because of all his humanitarian work improving the lot and condition of the working classes.

Mrs. Dickie sang a duet with Robert Wormleighton.

F. S. Dunliffe of Nanaimo alleged great losses of trade and business were suffered by Canada during the Mackenzie King administration before Mr. Bennett came to power. He said the losses amounted to billions during the period 1921-30, with the producers especially suffering tremendous losses. He contrasted this condition with the change brought about by Mr. Bennett with his Empire trade policies, which, he said, needed Mr. Bennett's return to make sure they were carried out.

Brian Hoole said the election was the most important since Confederation as the electors of Canada had to make a choice between three policies, the policy of caution under Mr. Bennett, the policy of promises under Mr. King and the policy of dreams under the C.C.F. Mr. Hoole went on to point out how Mr. Bennett had improved conditions with his reforms, including the Bank of Canada Act, Farm Creditors Arrangement Act and the Natural Products Marketing Act.

B. A. Wootton said the Liberal Party had failed to pass much humanitarian legislation during its term in office. He praised the character and career of Mr. Dickie. Mrs. Henderson Lawrie presided.

Versatile Woman Here On a Visit

Mrs. Louis T. Merwin of Portland is Varsity Graduate, Business Executive, Philanthropist and Artist.

Visitors here every year, and sometimes several times a year, since 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Louis T. Merwin of Portland, Oregon, are guests at the Empress Hotel and expect to remain here for another week or ten days.

Mrs. Merwin is keenly interested in all matters pertaining to women, both from the academic and business standpoint, as she happily combines both these viewpoints by reason of her versatile experience.

Graduating from Leland Stanford, California, at a time when co-eds were but few, owing to the high academic standards demanded from women in the universities, Mrs. Merwin is now regional director and member of the national board of the U.S. Association of University Women. She has also been for four years president of the board of directors of a Portland hotel which caters exclusively to business and professional women.

In addition she is interested in welfare work among girls, being president of the Camp Fire Girls in her home city.

With the little leisure that is left after her many business, philanthropic and social activities, Mrs. Merwin finds time to attend art classes, and is an accomplished artist.

IS KEEN GARDENER

Mr. Merwin, who is the vice-president and general manager of the Northwestern Electric Company of Portland, confesses to a weakness for gardening. He finds much to appreciate and enjoy in the beautiful gardens and conservatories at the Empress Hotel, and anticipates gleaming much valuable information while here from Fred Saunders, which he hopes to use to advantage in his own lovely garden in Portland.

Mrs. Merwin came to Victoria first in 1921 with her sister-in-law, the late Dr. Caroline Merwin, who was returning to China to resume her duties as a medical missionary. Mrs. Merwin was so enchanted with this city on that initial visit that she has returned every year since, and declares that she and her husband, in common with many other Portland people, would come more often during the fall and winter months if the ferry service permitted.

EX-PRINCESS IS BETRAYED

Woman Working in Soviet Factory Denounced As Czarist's Daughter

Associated Press
Leningrad, Sept. 25.—Revolutionary photographs showing her in the fine clothes of the daughter of a Czarist family, yesterday betrayed a member of the Communist party as a former princess.

The report of Red investigators also accused her of having participated in the execution of Bolshevik soldiers in the civil war of 1918-19. Her name was given as Kuklin.

She was found working in a Leningrad rubber factory, a job she obtained by posing as a peasant woman after her family had fled abroad when the White Guard movement was crushed.

She was a fugitive from city to city in the Soviet Union after the Red triumph, finally settling in Leningrad.

Her advancement in the rubber factory was rapid, leading eventually to membership in the Communist ranks. The rigid surveillance of party members by its leaders led searchers to her quarters where the betraying photographs were found.

Her father, it was discovered, was one of the Czar's most prominent physicians and owner of a large private hospital.

Party leaders promptly expelled her, but no further action against her has been announced.

Girl Tennis Star In World's Record

Gem Hoahing, London Chinese, Smashes all Junior Tennis Records; Blind Girl Sees.

London (By Mail).—A fourteen-year-old Chinese girl—who can scarcely see above a tennis net—smashed all the world's junior tennis records recently.

She is Miss Gem Hoahing, a pupil of Twickenham County School, some thirteen miles from London.

Although only just four feet high, she has won the Middlesex County junior lawn tennis championship by an amazing, record-smashing performance.

She won sixty-one games in singles, and twenty-five in doubles.

Lost only five games in six rounds of the singles.

To reach the final of the girls' singles she played five rounds—and won them all by 6-0, 6-0. This feat constitutes a world record for any player in any championship event.

Tennis, however, is not to be Gem's career. Her mother, a doctor, wishes her to become a lawyer, a profession which Gem is eager to begin.

BLIND GIRL SEES
After six years of total blindness, a woman is learning to see again in London. Her recovery of sight is due to the skill of Dr. Tudor Thomas, the famous London eye specialist.

The woman, Miss Robson, whose home is in the north of England, began to lose her sight at the age of nineteen.

Nothing could be done for her, the specialists said.

"At first, I thought life had ended for me," she told the nurses who prepared her for Dr. Thomas's operation. "I was frightened to go out. The utter blackness seemed unbearable."

"Then my sister started to teach me dancing. I went to dances with a partner and enjoyed them thoroughly. Without sight, I learned fully to appreciate rhythm and movement."

Then a friend told her of Dr. Thomas's cures by means of grafting sound parts of eyes taken from hopelessly blind people on to eyes of those whose optic nerve was still alive.

Miss Robson asked him to examine her eyes. He said there was hope that she would see again if she would submit to three intricate operations.

Two have now been performed—and Miss Robson can see colors clearly and shapes as if through a mist. When the third operation is over, specialists believe her sight will be normal.

WIFE SOLD FOR £18.

One hundred years ago this week, an Englishman sold his wife for 28s.—and a Newfoundland dog.

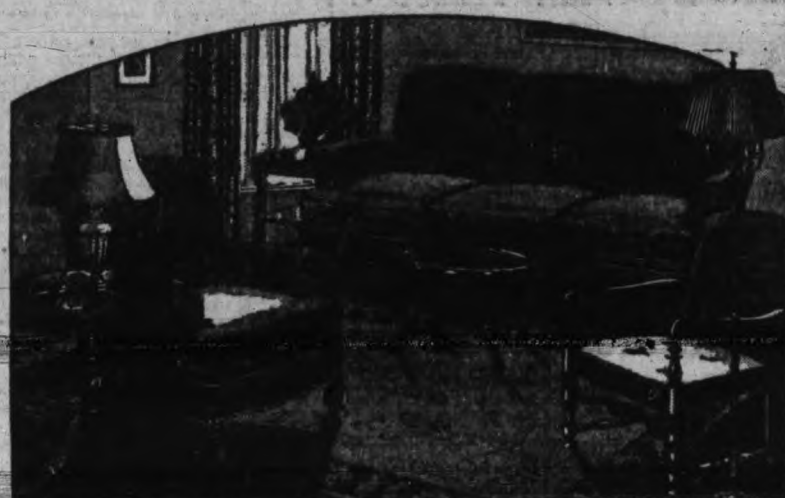

This is revealed to-day by publication of a comparison between modern marriage laws and the law standards of the nineteenth century.

The man who sold his wife was Joseph Thomson, a farmer. After three years of matrimony, he decided he was not happy. So Mrs. Thomson was put on a chair with a halter round her neck, in the middle of a Midland market town. Her husband then addressed the assembled crowd in the following manner:

"She has been a born serpent. I took her for the good of my home but she has become my tormentor, a domestic curse, a nightly invasion, and a daily devil. Avoid troublesome women as you would a mad dog, a roaring lion, a loaded pistol, cholera morbus, Mount Etna, or any other pestilent thing in nature."

"Now I will introduce the bright and sunny side of my wife. She can

Fascinating Treasures In Loan Curio Exhibition

Mrs. W. C. Nichol To-day Opened Novel Collection at Memorial Hall; Ancient Art, Bibelots and Relics From All Over the World Shown

Treasures which once adorned the vest of the Inca in Peru and reputed to be nearly 1,600 years old, iridescent glass dug up in Jerusalem and dating from 300 A.D., ecclesiastical curios from Ethiopia, and bibelots of all kinds garnered from treasured possessions of pioneer families on Vancouver Island, these are among the thousand and one fascinating articles shown at the Loan Curio exhibition which opened to-day at the Memorial Hall, and will continue all day to-morrow and Friday.

Mrs. W. C. Nichol, who was introduced by Dean Quinlan, formally opened the affair this afternoon, congratulating the sponsors, the Women's Parish Guild on their enterprise in arranging such a wonderful collection. She was presented by Mrs. Geo. Miles, president of the guild, with a beautiful corsage bouquet.

QUEEN-VICTORIA'S SKIRT

To facilitate the viewing of the collection, different rooms have been allotted to different countries. In the British room, century-old dolls and toys, exquisite old china and other bric-a-brac is displayed. A quaint old black silk skirt, worn by Queen Victoria, and loaned by Mrs. W. H. Smith, has a series of buttons and loops to enable the garment to be shortened for walking. A fine suite of household sofa and chairs was brought around the Horn in the early days and is in almost pristine condition.

Men will find particular interest in the very fine collection of pipes, loaned by Col. Phillips, and including some very fine carved meerschaums, calabashes, elaborate Turkish "hoo-kahs," and pipes which have belonged to famous figures of history.

A WINCHESTER RELIC

Of timely interest, in view of the illustrated lectures given on the subject of Winchester recently, is a weathered, grimey little relic. The perfectly preserved skeleton of a sparrow, found in the rafters of the spire of St. Cross, Winchester, and known to be at least 800 years old, is enclosed in a glass frame, the woodwork of which formed the head of the bed used by William of Wykeham, Bishop of Winchester, who died in 1414. Mrs. Harris, Vancouver Street, lent this to the exhibition.

In the same room is a cabinet of historic china, loaned by A. MacCorkindale. This china, which is in perfect preservation, was part of a shipment on an old Dutch merchant man which traded between Holland and China and founded in Hoofden Bay, South Africa, in 1724. The china, believed at that time to be 800 years old, lay for 193 years on the bed of the Atlantic ocean and was salvaged in 1907. The owner has documents vouching for these facts.

HEIRLOOM TREASURES

A beautiful old Irish fiddle bin of oak, bearing the patina of age and "elbow-grease," old chairs of every description, pewter, silver plate, a seventeenth century knife used for hunting wild boars in England, its blade exquisitely chased with scenes of the chase, fragile but exquisitely embroidered christening robes of a by-gone day, a blanket brought by United Empire Loyalists from New Jersey to Ontario in 1784, and still in splendid condition, are among the heirloom treasures.

In the room devoted to art is a strikingly beautiful Chinese wedding address. Presented in 1804 by Li Hong Ching, a Chinese Christian whose father was secretary to Dr. Burdon, Bishop of Victoria, Hong-kong, the address is exquisitely embroidered on white satin and enclosed in an elaborate frame of cypress wood, inlaid with mother of pearl.

Mr. C. Hensley loaned the old family "newspaper" called The Millipenn, which was published by the author's family in Prince Edward Island in early days. It is in the form of a ledger, all the news items and editorials being painstakingly written by hand in ink.

GUN-A-NOOT'S ROBE

Mrs. A. J. Dallain has loaned many of her rare West Coast Indian relics. Among these is the handsome marmot robe which belonged to Gun-a-Noot, the Indian chief who was for many years outlawed on a charge of murder and subsequently tried and acquitted. A medicine man's rattle, of bog maple, used in tribal dances on the Upper Skeena in early days, together with a medicine man's necklace of bone links, tools and grease dishes elaborately carved from black slate by the rapidly-vanishing Haida, are among the priceless and irreplaceable samples of the dying art of the Indians loaned by Mrs. Dallain.

Mrs. McTavish and Miss Agnew have also loaned some fascinating specimens to this section.

FROM INCA MUMMIES

Ancient Peru is represented in the collection loaned by Mrs. W. L. McKill. Among these are gold and silver masks and ornaments from Peruvian mummies of high caste excavated in Peru and believed to be from 400 to 1,000 years old; the first volume of "History of the Conquest of Peru," written by a member of the suite of Pizarro the Conqueror, and printed in 1720, and ancient pottery from the tombs of the Incas.

Mrs. T. W. A. Gray's curios from Palestine include a green, iridescent glass tear-bottle excavated from beneath St. George's Cathedral, Jerusalem, and believed to date from 300 A.D.; lovely Palestinian lace and other lovely specimens of native work.

FROM ETHIOPIA

Beautifully wrought metal processional and other crosses made by natives, and an exquisite triptych, or devotional tablet, of silver gilt and painted work from Ethiopia, an Easter egg from Russia, believed to be about a century old, and a wonderfully carved triptych from the same country, are among the ecclesiastical art treasures in charge of Deaconess Robinson.

A copy of the Psalms, presented by Lord Napier of Magdala to Rev. W. J. Fennel, chaplain to the expedition, in 1869; ancient ivory beads from Tibet, each bead containing diminutive dice, loaned by Miss Agnew, carvings from Oberammergau, church embroideries and beautiful vestments, are all included in this exhibit.

Grim reminders of the Great War are the pieces of carved oak from St. Martin's Church, Ypres, and the part of a vestment dug up beneath the ruins of Albert Cathedral on the Somme.

A RECORD CHROMSTER

An old German Bible box, dated

1494, and elaborately carved with Biblical scenes, old Bibles and prayer books, the late Bishop Hill's traveling chalice and paten are shown, together with a quaint picture of a woman who was perhaps the world's oldest chorister, Caroline Austin of Ryde, Isle of Wight, who was born in 1812 and died in 1898 and who sang in the choir of St. Thomas's church for seventy-nine years.

The Thermopylae Club's room shows some interesting models of tea-clippers, and other sailing craft, sea-pictures and curios.

Refreshments are being served at the Memorial Hall each day in connection with the exhibition, while at 8 o'clock in the auditorium there will be given "An Early Victorian Fashion Parade," the participants in which will be well-known local people.

"Where are we?" Irene asked.

"Not far from Donner's lake, I tried to radio, but the dirty bound smashed it." Tears of rage gathered in the pilot's eyes and rolled down his face. "He had the drop on me."

"You made a swell landing," the copilot comforted him. "What's the chance of someone coming by?"

"About one in a hundred," Bruce admitted grimly. "They knew what they were doing. This is one of the most cleverly planned escapes ever made."

"They are the convicts from San Quentin, aren't they?" the copilot asked.

"That's right," Bruce answered. "They were released for the second time."

"They sure are. And what's more, they'll probably get away with it. They'll probably be miles from here before we're rescued."

The woman who had fainted came back to her consciousness and began to weep. Her husband, writing at his helplessness, said, "Don't cry, honey! They're gone."

Now that it was all over, everyone tried to be nonchalant. They joked and said someone would be sure to find them soon. But as darkness gathered about the plane and the hope of being discovered that night disappeared, taut nerves began to snap.

CHAPTER XXVII

The prisoners were suffering not only from the cramped positions induced by their bonds, but also from hunger and thirst. In vain the men had pulled at the ropes and straps which held them until their skin was bruised and torn. If they could have turned on the lights, it wouldn't have been so terrifying, but to be unable to see through the lonely darkness of a mountain night...

Someone said fearfully, "Suppose the plane should catch fire."

"No danger of that," Bruce snapped. But a mental picture of the plane in flames, with its load of passengers trapped, had flashed across the minds of all present.

"How soon will they start looking for us?" Irene asked.

"They're looking now, I imagine. Planes are probably scouring the country between San Francisco and Seattle, but naturally they will have no reason to suspect that we were forced off our course."

"Someone is bound to come down that road," Robert Steel said more hopefully than he felt. "If we hear a car, we must all yell for help."

"How about a little song just to cheer us up?" suggested the conversational one.

With great enthusiasm he began to sing. "It's a long, long trail winding, until someone shouted, 'Oh, for God's sake, shut up!'"

"Excuse me!" the singer said, offended.

Irene was sorry for him, but the plaintive strains of the song in the midst of the overwhelming solitude about them had been more than anyone else could bear. If only a car would go by! Or a plane would come. Surely the night couldn't go by without someone's finding them. But another hour dragged wearily to a close and nothing had happened. All attempts at nonchalance had been abandoned. Irene felt as if red hot knives were piercing her back. There were pins and needles sticking in her legs and arms. Then her straining eyes fancied they caught a faint, far-distant humming. Afraid that she might be imagining it, she listened without speaking, until others began to hear it, too.

"Isn't that a plane?"

"Heaven be praised!" cried the fragile little old lady.

"But will they see us? Can they in the dark? They may not be looking for us, you know."

They couldn't see it, but the hum gradually became a roar which seemed to be directly over them only to lessen and fade away. Strong men in that plane felt tears on their cheeks as they realized that it had passed them by. Then far away they heard it. Again it approached, hovered about them and receded.

"They must be looking for us," Bruce cried excitedly when this had happened for the third time. "They have us spotted. They're probably circling around us trying to find a place to land."

He was right. The plane, buzzing reassuringly closer, finally swept down to the ground. Everyone began to talk at once as two figures jumped from the cockpit and ran across the intervening space. Then the door was thrown open, and a flashlight illuminated the darkness.

"Irene, darling!"

"Oh, Barney," she sobbed.

Your premature child at one-year probably weighs about seventeen pounds. The weight should be about normal when the baby is five years old. All babies dislike noise. This baby is very bright, and I'd let him eat the vegetables unmashed, if he likes them that way, and note his reaction. Cut the vegetables fine and steam them to make them readily digestible. You may have diet leaflets for both children if you will send enough stamps and a large enough envelope to accommodate them. I'm glad you wrote.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN ON THE AIR

By MARY E. DAGUE

The old garden looks a little sad now, with all the best vines picked nearly bare and only last-minute fragments of this and that left. But there's one final spurt of activity left—that is, if you don't mind a little work. What you can do is combine the left-overs and can them. Then next winter, bring them out for an admiring family as soup, salad and relish.

An excellent soup-mixture to add to most stock is made by filling a sterilized jar with layers of all the vegetables left over. Let peas, beans, carrots, corn, okra, celery, tomatoes, onion, turnips, cauliflower and cabbage can according to the usual hot-pack method, processing the cans for the period required for the vegetable being the longest time.

MAKING SALAD INGREDIENTS EASY

Sliced mushrooms are canned in slightly sweetened vinegar. Then serve in winter with a plain French dressing or with mayonnaise. Or add to a jellied salad. Lima beans, tiny uncut beans, carrots cut in neat dice, threads of red and green sweet peppers, paper-thin slices of silver-skinned onions and slices of cucumbers are particularly good for the salad. With the exception of the cucumbers which should be soaked over night in a salt solution, the vegetables are prepared as for canning.

When they are ready, pack in sterilized jars and pour over a solution made by bringing to the boiling point $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water, 2 cups vinegar and 2 teaspoons salt. Process in hot water bath for thirty minutes or at ten minutes under ten pounds pressure in a steam pressure cooker. Can fruits for salad in light syrup.

Here is a recipe for a soup mixture which will serve as a basic recipe for other mixtures.

SOUP MIXTURE

One cup lima beans, 1 cup corn cut from cob, 1 cup diced carrots, 1 cup dried celery, 1 small onion minced, 4 cups diced tomatoes, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

Prepare vegetables as for table. Combine and bring to the boiling point. Add salt and boil five minutes. Pack in sterilized jars, half seal and process in hot water bath for three hours or under ten pounds pressure for forty five minutes. You see the time is calculated for the beans and corn.

Of course, this combination can be varied to suit the vegetables you happen to have at hand but it's a good plan to include tomatoes in all mixtures. The acidity of the tomato aids in preserving the vegetables.

A savory combination adds okra and a few new turnips cut in tiny dice to tomatoes and corn. You'll like this in a chicken broth, although it's good in any soup.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Sliced peaches with cereal and cream, creamed dried beef with browned tomatoes, pop-overs, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Vegetable soup, toasted cheese rolls, tomato cream pudding, grape juice.

Dinner: Lamb pie, creamed new turnips, honeydew and stuffed pepper salad, plum cobbler, milk, coffee.

Held Bazaar Shower—Daughters of England, Primrose No. 32, held a very successful shower for the bazaar on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Heady, Wark Street. Games were played and a recitation by Mrs. Chapelle was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. Baron and Mrs. D. McKenzie, which brought the evening to a close. The lodge will hold its social meeting on Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sons of England Hall to be followed by a five hundred card game.

TIBBETT ON CBS

One of America's greatest baritone voices, Lawrence Tibbett, sings over the Columbia network with Don Voornbees' Orchestra every Tuesday night, from 4:30 to 5 p.m., P.S.T. The first broadcast of the series was heard yesterday. For three years running, America's radio critics have named Tibbett as the outstanding male singer on the air. The popular baritone has won equal success with the Metropolitan Opera. In motion pictures, on the concert platform and in radio.

WILL SING HERE WITH ALTHOUSE

Queria Eybel, who sings here with Paul Althouse at the Empire Theatre on Tuesday, October 1, has had the unusual experience of making her operatic debut both in Europe and America in leading roles. Her European debut was made at Pavia, Italy, in the title role of Bellini's "Norma," while her American debut was made with the San Francisco Opera Company as Beppe in "L'Amico Fritz."

"I owe my first operatic opportunity to Gaetano Merola, director of the San Francisco Opera Company," says Miss Eybel. "He heard me sing shortly before my departure for Europe for further study, and gave me the wonderful opportunity of singing a leading role in 'L'Amico Fritz' with Tito Schipa and Giuseppe de Luca."

Last season, following Miss Eybel's return from Europe, Director Merola immediately engaged her for the difficult role of Venus in "Tannhauser," with Lauritz Melchior, famous tenor of the Metropolitan, as Tannhauser and Mme. Melchior as Elisabeth. So triumphant a success did Miss Eybel score that she has been engaged for three performances during the coming San Francisco opera season.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes absent. Any one of these symptoms means that your kidneys and bladder need attention. The kidneys are the filters of the body. They filter out the waste products of the body and excrete them in the urine. If the kidneys are not working properly, the waste products will build up in the body and cause various ailments. This is why it is so important to keep the kidneys healthy. There are many ways to do this, but the most effective is to use a good kidney medicine. This medicine will flush the kidneys of poisons and stop getting up at night.

DEPRESSION BIG ISSUE

Too Many Irrelevant Matters
Being Discussed, Says
C.C.F. Candidate

Prof. King Gordon, the C.C.F. candidate in Victoria, charged at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening that too many candidates in the present election were ignoring the depression altogether and talking of irrelevant matters.

The main question before the people to-day was still that of unemployment.

ment. If the C.C.F. got into power this would be the prime concern. Large projects such as housing schemes, and electric lighting plants would be undertaken to provide work at a sufficient rate of pay with maximum hours of work fixed and rigidly enforced.

He laid the drop in trade directly to high tariffs, but said he would not blame the decline in Canadian trade alone on Mr. Bennett, and predicted that tariff walls would go still higher because some elements were over anxious to fill their pockets.

Mrs. Grace MacInnis of Vancouver, was the other speaker, delivering an attack on policies of the old line parties.

Mr. Bennett she admired in some ways because he was big enough to try and end the depression while still adhering to capitalism, but she felt he had failed. All the other parties likewise stood for rehabilitation of the capitalist order.

She had difficulty, she said, in understanding the Liberal policy. While Premier Hepburn's advice from Ontario was to borrow less and tighten belts, Premier Pettullo believed in borrowing and still more borrowing.

The Liberals were advocating lower tariffs to attract a flood of goods for which Canada could not pay and at the same time regional Johnson, M.P.F., was advocating regional tariffs for B.C.

Many of the ancestors of Canadian people had come to the country because of crop failures and grasping landlords in other countries. The present generation found itself now in the same position but had nowhere to go.

"We propose to stay right here and make the country worth living in," she declared.

Affid Carmichael was chairman.

Delores Del Rio Wanted Her Way

Many life stories have been written about Delores Del Rio, but here is her very own. It is the tenth in a series of twelve famous stars, who are working for Dan Thomas, The Times Hollywood correspondent, while he is on vacation.

—BY—

Delores Del Rio

There have been so many life stories written about me that I don't know which one to believe. They have been tragic, dramatic, humorous. They have been true and untrue.

I've liked them all, but one. That one, melodramatic, blood-curdling in its fantastic detail, I shall never forget!

It related that I had fled from Pancho Villa; that he had pursued me and I had to swim in the nude through icy waters to escape his clutches!

Surrounded by his men, leering, threatening, in some miraculous way I eluded him, and worked a miracle of salvation for the terrified community!

The incoherence of my synopsis is no more incoherent than the story. What a shame to disappoint as I anticipated a writer, but I really must deny his "Life story of Delores Del Rio."

When Pancho Villa was leading those troops he described, I was four years old. Obviously his men would not have been tracking me down in the swamps of my country! I am sorry, but it just wasn't, just could not have been, true.

STARTS IN A CONVENT
My early life was the early life of any girl born as I was in Mexico of that day. His background was naturally the convent. We went from Durango, my birthplace, to Mexico City when I was about five years old, and there I was placed in St. Joseph's convent.

I was no better, no worse than the other girls. A bit more adventurous, perhaps. And they let me do one thing I really loved. They let me dance.

The only punishment I ever received was for hiding a mirror and curling my hair. Mirrors were forbidden. I liked to look at myself. So I hid one, and was caught. The sisters warned me.

My hair and the great humiliation came when I was marched before all the girls in the patio of the convent and my curled head soundly and thoroughly ducked into the water of the little lily pond.

It did me no good. I have always felt sorry for the sisters who wanted to change me. I still love a mirror and I still curl my hair. So I am stubborn, you see.

DISAPPOINTED PARENTS
But about that, I am not too apologetic. I had to be stubborn to lead my life. You cannot imagine the shock it was to my family and friends when I was invited and decided to come to Hollywood and make pictures.

Such a thing had never been done before by anyone they knew. One was supposed to meld oneself into the groove of life outlined by generations of self-sacrificing gentle, unworldly women!

But I had already shocked them a few times before. I had married at fifteen, gone straight from the convent to the altar. That was, however, a mild shock in my country where girls mature early.

But, after my return from my honeymoon, I had gotten weary of the monotony of purely social days. I had enrolled in the university! That was a major shock.

I had enrolled to study the history of art, but what I was studying didn't matter. The thing that did was, "A lady did not go to the university." Very well, I was enjoying myself hugely, my status bothering me not at all.

MOTHER WAS FOR HER

I studied singing. My mother tells me that despite the general wonder that a young married woman should study, she was secretly pleased about my doing so.

But when I announced that I was going to Hollywood to make motion pictures, the storm broke! I was mad! I was any of 10,000 things! To an infinite degree, I was completely wrong!

I said to myself, "Go to Hollywood to succeed. For success brings forgiveness."

I came to Hollywood, not daring to fail. It had done so, my burned bridges would have loomed up to mock me. I should have felt outcast from my circle of friends whose judgment I had derided.

Nine years passed before I returned home. Everyone one was charming to me. Times had changed, and I found so many young ones, such as I had been, envying me my Hollywood. So being stubborn is not always wrong.

LEARNS FROM HOLLYWOOD
Hollywood gave me my philosophy, too. Everyone was kind. So very kind. But often they played little jokes on me which made me sad, even though I knew the jokes were inspired not by malice, but by an affection for me.

But I do not like being in a country whose language I cannot use. It was difficult, learning English. The very cords of my throat rebelled against this! You already know all the things I know about myself. And more!

I was born in Durango, I lived in Mexico City. I married Jamie Del Rio of my own country. I am now married to Cedric Gibbons, who is Irish.

I was once very ill, and now very well. I adore my husband, my home, and my work. I love the sun, and moon, and trees, and heavy curtains of flowers. And beautiful friends about me.

I hate intolerance and blundering stupidity. And those who are ridden by fear. I have had much laughter and much success. And many tears and dark sorrow. Now, gently, a philosophy has tempered all these things for me.

And if I had only twenty-four hours to live I should spend it quietly praying in my church, grateful for what life has done to me, as well as for what it has done for me.

Adios.

Next: Gary Cooper.

PLAY GIVEN AS PEACE ARGUMENT
New York, Sept. 25.—Rev. Dr. J. Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community Church, transferred his crusade for world peace from the pulpit to the Broadway stage yesterday evening when a pacifist play of his joint authorship was presented to a cheering audience.

The play, called "If This Be Treason," was written in collaboration with Reginald Lawrence, and produced by the Theatre Guild.

Its story deals with a hypothetical war between Japan and the United States. It is the argument of Dr. Holmes and his collaborator that it is better for the powers to discuss peace terms before men have been killed in battle.

OBSERVER

SWASTIKA

To the Editor:—The protest of Germany for the pulling down of the Swastika flag, from a German ship in a U.S.A. harbor, sounds just like the bully-boy sensitiveness of the dictator mind everywhere.

No doubt Hitler is proud of the flash of thought that induced him to adopt this emblem for his New Germany.

But apart from the fact that it is a heathen emblem, the question arises, has any Christian nation the moral right to claim exclusive national use of the emblem of Buddhism?

China and all other Buddhist countries could protest against its use as a flag, by any Christian or non-Buddhist nation, and their international legal right to do so, might be upheld by the League of Nations.

Who but a Hitler or a Mussolini would be so small-minded as to make an issue of such a trifle as the use or abuse of a Buddhist emblem in a foreign country, nor do I consider the Buddhist cult will feel flattered in its use by a European nation, nor by the Canadian National Railway's use of it.

We smile at, and condone, such real human touches of humor, and to have our vanity tickled occasionally, as by slogans and catch phrases during an election campaign.

Politics is making us more and more the playthings of sentiment, rather than balanced reasoning citizens, till at last we get so befuddled, we toss the coin, and rush off to poll our vote before our minds have time to change again.

What a world we live in, and it is all just as we make it. The lords of creation become the serfs of their own public servants, and are proud of it.

JAMES MOYES.
Cobb Hill, September 23.

FOR PEACE

To the Editor:—Three cheers for the writer of "My Kiddies and Yours" printed in your column on Saturday, Sept. 21. It concerns me just a little for I am one of those "kiddies." Here is my viewpoint, and I don't mind the scoldings or otherwise that may arise from my opinion.

So far the younger generation seem to have sat back and listened to the international troubles, quietly. I am hoping my letter will awaken them and some of the younger readers will submit more of their opinions to this interesting column. After all—youth, it is you who will be "called on" first; it is youth who will be sacrificed to the God of War; and it is youth who will suffer long after the war guns have stopped. We know this only too well, for the opportunities of youth are few and far between, at the present day.

Being a war time baby I grew up with a fear of war and listened to the lessons taught me concerning the League of Nations. To our young minds it meant peace and the very life of the peoples which could only be brought about by "Teaching the younger generation." I wonder, teach us? Or teach the elders in Europe?

I think if left to the war babies we would have enough reasoning in our young heads to find a way and means of ridding the world of the too ambitious dictators who threaten the very core of civilization. But strange as it may seem we are still called babies (though not if war comes) and our elders set the horrible example of misrepresentation. Stranger yet is the fact that our highest paid and most ambitious leaders are the ones who set this example. What will be its effect on youth? We have been taught one lesson, and in our hearts we abided by it and signed therein a "treaty" for peace. Must this treaty be broken by youth like the written scrap "treaties" of some nations?

I should like very much to see six statesmen from each disputing nation meet man to man on the battlefield and "have it out" for then there would be fewer wars and peace would come. Men prayed during the last war for peace, many died for it, and we honor them for it. If peace is to be, we must teach the nations of Europe and cool their dispositions to a more moderate level, even if the empire has to build an army and navy second to none, we could at least hold supremacy and have the power to invoke peace. Unfortunately power of a nation means a great deal toward peace. Sometimes now, it looks as if the "fellow with the most stones is the fellow who wins." It is not the nation who throws away a goodly share of its defence to set a good example. But the war babies want peace and let us hope we know our lessons.

Come on, my companions, the war babies, write and write to this and other columns, acknowledge yourselves. Let us start this chain letter idea throughout the world, especially in Europe. To play the game we must grasp firmly the torch thrown to us, by the glorious dead and keep that torch burning peacefully for the sake of all humanity.

CANADIAN WAR BABY.
Oliver Street, Oak Bay.

OUR RAILROADS

To the Editor:—With reference to my letter which you were good enough to print in your issue of the 19th inst., and your editor's note appended thereto, I understand that the $60,000,000 loaned by the government to the C.P.R. (as a measure of relief for unemployment) has been largely paid back by the company. You wrote of the grotesque failure of the old Grand Trunk, etc., under private control. In that you may be right, but that failure is negligible compared to the failures of government control when they took these railways over and added hundreds of millions to Canadian debt in a futile endeavor to make these railways paying concerns. Besides, when privately owned they were not a charge on the people of Canada. They were bankrupt when taken over, and one wonders why in that case the government paid cash to Mackenzie & Mann the cost price for a bankrupt business, when the vendors might have been glad to give them away "for a song." The reason these railways failed under private control was because the English financial promoters who built them (I refer especially to the old Grand Trunk), filled the higher offices mainly with relatives, friends and remittance men who had little or no understanding of their business, in short, men who were as useless for this work as are most of our politicians. Surely no one thinks I am suggesting that men of this type be put in charge of our railways. If, as you say, it would be illegal to "unify" our railway system, the outstanding financial difficulty in Canada, the law should be altered to enable this to be done, when it is so obviously the only way out.

I have heard anxiety expressed as to the power of such a "monopoly." This is absurd. We would always have the not inconsiderable competition of trucks, even airplanes, and there is always the board of railway commissioners to prevent any abuses which I am sure such men as would be in charge would never attempt, if for no other reason than that it would be bad business. I would like to add that an article printed in your issue of the 24th completely exonerates Mr. Bennett of your accusation that he is believed to be "privately" in favor of amalgamation, unless, of course, you consider him to be the most hypocritical man in Canada. I still maintain that our railways should be managed by men of the type I indicated, and not politicians, who have a population of about 10,000,000 to look after, build enough railway mileage for ten times that number. In your paper of the 19th Mr. Moyes of Cobb Hill refers to my letter, and I take this opportunity of making a few things clear. I am not writing letters to you for self interest, I own no C.P.R. stocks or shares. His argument, that if I think the government is not capable of managing railways, I must also think it should not run the post office, building roads, etc. These arguments have no relation to the case in point. My ideas are progressive, not retrograde. I always understood that the post office was the only government business that did pay, or am I wrong? Are none of the affairs well enough managed for that?

The government is spending a lot of time and money at the present time prying into the affairs of private business. What of its own affairs? Any private business conducted after government pattern would be a bankrupt concern almost before it started.

Joe Louis Slaughters Once Great Baer In Four Rounds

Californian Is Counted Out a Battered Wreck

THE SPORTS MIRROR

WITH THE Philadelphia Athletics so deep in red ink that the grand old die-hard, Connie Mack, is stumping the American League in the interests of night baseball, the venerable leader is expected to bail out the Philadelphia club and then some this fall by selling James Emory Fox, Roger Cramer, and Pinky Higgins to the immensely rich Boston Red Sox.

That would be a fairly important deal.

After seeing a pronounced lead dissipated by the New York Giants for the second straight season, Bill Terry may not even wait for the world series to be concluded before handing the faithful Phillies Roy Parmelee, Hughie Citz, Mark Koenig, and $50,000 for Dolph Camilli and Curt Davis.

There is no question but that young Thomas Austin Yawkey is keenly disappointed with his fifth place Red Sox and the team's patrons have remained so loyal. Joe Cronin realizes that the army will be even weaker in 1936 unless there are replacements.

"We need a least one great slugger and at least one other good hitter. Why, just the other afternoon we left twenty-two men on the bases in one game. Twenty-two! Imagine! Just think what a Fox, a Hank Greenberg, or a Lou Gehrig would have meant to us that day. It's been that way all season. We're in the market. We'll talk business with anybody."

Gehrig and Greenberg are not for sale at any price, but with the Athletics requiring ready cash and few in Philadelphia caring one way or the other, it is reasonable to suspect that Yawkey, who is down to his last $38,000, will purchase Fox. And in disposing of his home-run hitter, Mack might just as well go all the way and get all he can for Cramer and Higgins, too.

Fox has repeatedly expressed a desire to escape from Shibe Park. Mack's statement that only two members of his 1935 team, Wally Moses and Little Rabbit Warfield, hustled is taken by many as a warning intended to muffle, if possible, the cries of the few Philadelphia fans interested enough to complain when the batter is disclosed.

Fox and Higgins, the long range swatters, and Cramer, bidding for the batting championship, haven't been on their toes, according to the tall tale. Any club with the price would like to have Fox, Higgins, and Cramer.

The Red Sox have given up on Babe Dahlgren, who would be succeeded by Fox at first base. The Boston management has an idea that Bill Werber was a one-year wonder. He would be succeeded by Higgins at third base. Fox and Higgins are great sluggers of whom Cronin speaks, and Cramer the other good hitter.

Negro Sets Punching Pace That Has Former Champion Completely Helpless

Was Twenty-fifth Straight Victory

By ALAN GOULD

New York, Sept. 25.—It looks like a non-stop flight to the top of the pugilistic heap for the brown bomber.

There remained to-day not the slightest doubt of the two-fisted greatness of Joe Louis, least of all in the minds of upwards of 90,000 onlookers who saw the twenty-one-year-old Detroit negro on his bridal evening mow down the once magnificent Max Baer with a punching blast as deadly as machine gun fire.

Mercilessly, methodically, never wasting a blow and rarely slackening a punching pace that has had few equals in heavyweight history, Louis knocked out the former champion in the fourth round of a fifteen-round match that revived all the glamor of the prize ring in a near million-dollar spectacle at the Yankee Stadium.

Baer not only was completely outclassed but also one of the most one-sided, one-flighted heavyweights since the famous Tex Rickard died and the great Jack Dempsey retired.

In eleven minutes and fifty seconds the youthful negro punched Baer into a bloody, senseless wreck; a battered figure still trying to muster the pretence of his own marvelous powers of resistance, fading out of the picture in defeat with magnificent gestures of futility.

It seemed Louis must have hit Baer nearly 300 times with as vicious a two-handed onslaught as any first-class heavyweight has absorbed since Dempsey slaughtered Willard at Toledo in 1919 or hammered down Louis Angel Firpo at the Polo Grounds in 1923.

It was, in the words of a late critic of the fight business, "modified murder" in every sense of the word; a "killing" so devastating and complete as to leave not a single question for dispute.

On his honeymoon to-day, upward of $200,000 richer, and taking it all with the same coolness that characterized his amazing ring workmanship, Joe Louis seemingly had no worries about a pugilistic future that contemporary word artists are painting in the gaudiest possible hues.

LOUIS GOOD SAYS JACK

Dempsey Declares It Will Take Really Great Fighter To Whip Negro

New York, Sept. 25.—Jack Dempsey, who seconded his "pal," Joe Louis, in his fight with Max Baer, declared today that it would take a really great fighter to beat him and there's no one around now capable of turning the trick.

Keenly disappointed by his protégé's showing, Dempsey declared "Baer is all washed up. He simply hasn't got it any more," added Dempsey.

"I sent Baer out there to fight, not box, but he wouldn't open up, except in one or two brief spurts. He couldn't even explain why he wasn't following instructions."

WAS SENSELESS "At the finish he was knocked absolutely senseless. He didn't know where he was when we dragged him back to the corner."

Asked what he thought his own chances would have been, in his prime, against Louis, Dempsey grinned and replied: "Well, I'd have kept punching with him, doing the best I could."

The former-champion left the impression he thought he might have had quite a pleasant punching party with the brawn bomber. His parting shot, however, was, "I'm glad I'm in the restaurant business now."

New York, Sept. 25.—Harlem neighbors trudged home at dawn to-day to sleep off a terrific hangover, scrambling their drawing reinforcers with easy abandon as they sang in praise of Joe Louis's whacking of Max Baer.

"Hot dog! Yeah, man! Lemme on!"

Until sunup the celebrants along Lenox Avenue, main street of New York's negro colony, danced in the sun.

They could not hail hero Louis in person. He and his bride remained at home.

The walls of the cabarets resounded with drink-filled laughter and song and the floors groaned under shuffling tune-bound feet—all for the pride in the prowess of a negro boy from Lafayette, Ala.

New York, Sept. 25.—Max Baer promised to win his fight with Joe Louis as his wife's birthday present, but she said to-day she is not sorry he lost.

"I'm satisfied," she said. "Max promised me he is through with the fight game forever."

"If he had won, he would have belonged to the world. Now that he's lost he belongs to me."

London, Sept. 25.—News of the fight business, "modified murder" in every sense of the word, was featured in most of the newspapers.

Tom Webster, famous British sports writer and cartoonist, started off his story by saying:

"We have just watched legalized murder as Max Baer stood up before Joe Louis for no sensible reason."

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Legion has it that on the day Bern, Switzerland, was founded, several bears were killed. Whatever truth there is to that story, the fact remains that to-day in Bern, as always, the city maintains a municipal bear pit where several bears are cared for at public expense. More than just inmates of a municipal zoo, the bear figures widely in the history and culture of Bern. It is found represented on the city's heraldic emblem and is a favorite subject in sculpture.

Like the character Samson in Biblical days, King Childeric of France lost his power when enemies cut off his long hair. It was a rule in the distant past in France that only a man with long flowing locks could rule the nation—without them no man could be king.

Enemies of King Childeric overpowered him and cut off his hair. Shorn of his hair, the king was also shorn of his prestige and power—in chaplin he gave up his throne and entered a monastery, there to end his days.

Stamps in Palestine bear English, Arabic and Hebrew words—those being the languages common in Palestine. Strange as it seems, each of these languages has a separate and distinct script.

To-morrow: Lifting Rat Trap.

after slaughtering Baer, Joe drew two or three deep breaths and exclaimed:

"Where, but that Max Baer has one tough chin. I mean he's got one tough chin."

Thereupon he rose to shake hands with Mayor Frank Couzens, Detroit, and Mike Jacobs, who promoted yesterday evening's spectacle in the Yankee Stadium.

"How about Schmeling next, Joe?" inquired the beaming Jacobs.

"O.K. by me," replied the colored boy. "If beating him means Braddock."

"That's the hardest I've ever been hit since I've been in this fight business," went on Joe, whose short and snappy triumph over Baer had rendered him valuable for a change.

BAER'S RIGHT HURT "That right he landed just before the bell in the second round hurt. And I felt the one he belted me with, right after the bell. But I knew I had him going when I found he couldn't take those left hooks in the first round. I kept him off balance with them all night. You all saw it."

Joe frankly acknowledged Baer was three times tougher for him than Primo Carners.

Baer Declares He Is Through; Louis Ready For German

Californian Announces Plans to Settle on Ranch and Forget About Boxing; Praises Ability of Negro Conqueror

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 25.—Becoming a bridegroom and knocking out the rough and tough Max Baer all within two hours and a half, is enough to excite almost any normal young man, but sleep-eyed Joe Louis couldn't even wait a good sweat over the double-barreled achievement yesterday evening.

Returning to his dressing-room out against "Braddock?" Baer was asked.

"I wouldn't want to say. Personally I don't think they'll ever fight."

Baer thoroughly enjoyed the post-fight festivities. But Ancil Hoffman, his manager, walked in and beckoned the big fellow to a corner. Baer threw his arms around Hoffman, completely hiding the pilot, and they remained in a huddle for a couple of minutes and then Hoffman moved into another corner followed by reporters.

"As far as I'm concerned Max is through with the ring, but there's no break between us, understand that," he said. "Now's the time for him to quit, while he still can think clearly. The trouble with Maxie is that he played around too long and couldn't build himself up again. He's got enough money tied up in a trust fund to retire. He won't have to beg."

Baer waited for his brother Buddy to come in after dropping a decision to Ford Smith. He called the big youngster "my champion," and then left to join Mrs. Baer and said he'd buy beer for one and all who wanted to drop in and "meet the missus."

Latest Negro Heavyweight Fighter Says He Will Fight Schmeling; Declares Baer Plenty Tough Scrapper

By DON CAVAGNARO

New York, Sept. 25.—Max Baer got his fill of Joe Louis and boxing yesterday evening.

He's through with the ring forever. He's got enough money to retire on and plans to settle on a ranch in the far west and buy 10,000 head of white-faced cattle.

Although knocked out and badly battered, Baer walked jauntily into his dressing room and yelled for a cigarette.

"I want so long without a cigarette I've got to have one now," Baer roared. "Bring me a bottle of beer, too."

Baer bore few marks of the beating he took from Louis. His left eye was bruised and the cheekbone on the same side was puffed a little. When the bandages were removed from his right hand the thumb was badly swollen.

"The thumb hurts some, but that didn't have anything to do with it," said Baer. "You know, fellows, I wasn't cut out to be a fighter. I've had my fling and now I'm through. My thumb hurt before the fight. As soon as I checked in I tried to give it the needle but the stuff wouldn't take."

PRaises LOUIS "Louis is a good fighter. He's not the best yet, but he's young and probably will go a long way. I hope so and I wish him luck. Joe isn't the hardest puncher I've met, however. He was Eddie Sims, the fellow I fought in Cleveland a few months ago."

St. Louis Faces Herculean Task

Open Series With Chicago Cubs To-day With Five Straight Victories Needed to Win National Baseball League Flag; Beat Pittsburgh Yesterday 11 to 2

BY ANDY CLARKE

The Dean brothers have found a task that fully measures up to Dizzy's estimate of their capabilities.

They will be thrown into the path of the oncoming Chicago Cubs, sweeping along on the crest of a tide of eighteen straight wins. Paul faces the first assignment to-day, with four days of rest, and Dizzy probably will take up the task to-morrow with the same amount of leisure behind him.

It is a tough task, the St. Louis Cards face, for they must sweep their five-game series with the Cubs to haul in the pennant and it will take four to lie. In their meetings this season, the Cards have won twelve and lost five to Chicago, but that was before the Cubs went berserk to soar into the lead by three full games.

BEAT PITTSBURGH

The Cards showed they had not burned all their powder yesterday when they came back from the humiliating 12 to 0 defeat of the day before to belt the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 2.

Wild Bill Hallahan was hitting on all cylinders as he held the opposition in check with three hits, while his mates went out and collected eleven hits, including homers by Jim Collins and Leo Durocher.

The disillusioned New York Giants took both games of a doubleheader from the Phillies, 6 to 0 and 7 to 6. At Smith pitched tight ball for the Giants in the first, but seven errors by the Phillies contributed to the second victory.

Brooklyn Dodgers pushed the Boston Braves a little deeper into the cellar by taking both ends of their double bill 5 to 3 and 6 to 8 with the second game going eleven innings.

The Braves put on a three-run rally in the ninth inning of the second game to tie the score, but Nick Tremark's single with the bases loaded brought victory for the Dodgers in the eleventh.

New York Yankees defeated Washington Senators 14 to 6. Founding Bump Hadley and Olin Rogers for a total of sixteen hits, the New Yorkers batted around and scored five runs in the second as Bump retreated to the shelter of the clubhouse.

Cleveland Indians collected fifteen hits to defeat Detroit Tigers 14 to 7. The Tigers, with the pennant in their belts, relaxed, and allowed the Indians to have what little satisfaction they got from the victory.

Three rookie pitchers were throwing balls all over the lot as the Boston Red Sox downed the Philadelphia Athletics twice, 3 to 2 and 6 to 5. Connie Mack ordered in his rookies to see what they could do and they handed out a total of fifteen passes. Lefty Grove gained his twentieth victory of the season in the opener.

The St. Louis Browns took both games in a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 0 and 6 to 3. Irving Burns helped the cause of the winners with a pair of homers, one in each game.

Budge Will Not Partner Moody

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Donald Budge, Oakland, is "very sorry" that he "cannot accept the honor" of playing with Miss Wanda Wood in the mixed doubles of the forthcoming Pacific Coast tennis championships, he said here yesterday at the Pacific Southwest tournament, in which he won the men's singles title Monday by default.

On being informed that Mrs. Moody had expressed hope of teaming with him in the Pacific Coast meet, Budge said he already had made arrangements to be the partner of Miss Freda James English Wightman Cup player, at the tournament.

ST. ANDREWS ARE DROPPED

Will Not Perform This Season in Intercity Soccer League; Six Entries

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—For the first time since they entered senior football in Vancouver in 1910, St. Andrews will be missing when the Intercity soccer league opens its schedule Saturday, October 5, one week later than previously announced.

Secretary Johnny Richardson of the British Columbia Soccer Commission, announced yesterday the circuit will comprise Victoria United, Nanaimo City, North Shore United, Rangers, St. Saviours and Westminster Royals.

He stated the decision to drop St. Andrews was based on performances since the commission began operating in 1932.

Westminster Royals, who had previously announced they would not compete in the league, changed their decision after a meeting at which the former management was thrown out of office.

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—Hitting Mike Meola, Los Angeles pitcher, at timely moments, the San Francisco Seals scored a 5 to 0 victory here yesterday evening in the opening game of the post-season series for the Coast League championship.

After Joe Di Maggio gained first on Lillard's low throw in the second inning he was sent along to second on Becker's out and scored on Hal Rhynes' single to right. In the fourth Di Maggio beat out a bunt, was sacrificed to second and trotted over the plate on Rhynes' second single.

The Seals scored two runs in the seventh and one run in the eighth on sloppy fielding by the visitors. Sam Gibson, tall right-hander of the Seals, was on the firing line and pitched steady ball. He allowed only five hits, keeping them spread over five separate innings.

LOUIS TAKES HIMSELF WIFE

Negro Heavyweight Married Two Hours Before He Fought Max Baer

New York, Sept. 25.—Joe Louis was married to a Chicago stenographer yesterday evening two hours and five minutes before he climbed through the ropes to pound punches with Max Baer.

While a noisy crowd waited outside, the Detroit negro calmly went through a ceremony that made him the husband of Marva Trotter, Chicago.

Then, without a change of expression, he said: "I've got a date with a fellow named Max Baer," and rode off to the scene of the conflict behind a screaming motor-cycle escort.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. C. Trotter, brother of the bride and a Baptist minister of Chicago, in the Harlem apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Porter, friends of Miss Trotter.

RICHMOND IN EASY VICTORY

Defeat North Shore Indians 14 to 8 to Capture Box Lacrosse Final

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Richmond Farmers handed the North Shore Indians a 14 to 8 defeat yesterday evening, putting the Indian team out of the running for the British Columbia box lacrosse championship. A capacity crowd of 10,000 saw the Indians outplayed in every quarter.

The Farmers have accepted a challenge from the Smoke-eaters of Trail, B.C., whom they will meet in a total-goal series in Vancouver on Friday, and in New Westminster on Monday.

OUTCLASSED
Richmond, using a quick-passing combination, effectively outplayed and outscored the Indians in every quarter. Half-time found the Richmond team on the long end of an 8 to 4 count, and they out loose in the third and final sessions to swarm over the weaker North Shore team and shower Henry Baker, Indian netminder, with rubber. Baker stopped a total of thirty-one shots. The Farmers started at a fast clip and had banged in two goals before Indians had had the ball. The third goal of the game went to the Redskins on a beautiful pass from Louis Lewis to Dominic Baker, but Richmond came right back with two more smart tallies. Indians scored again just before the whistle.

Indians were held to but two goals in the second session while repeated scoring thrusts, mostly by short, quick passes, netted the Farmers a total of four goals for the period to put them on the long end of a 8 to 4 at half-time.

SOLO GOALS
The third session saw the ball slip past Baker in the Indian net three times, all on solo rushes into Indian territory. Roy Baker gave the Redskins only goal of the session on an unassisted rush.

The Redskins made a vain attempt at a comeback in the final session, but were turned back by a solid Richmond defence. Two passes netted two tallies and another was scored on a lone rush by Moses Joseph. Richmond retained lead, scoring three goals in return.

Bill Dickinson showed up the Richmond team with a total of two goals, and Moses Joseph was best for the Indians with two goals and one assist.

BUDDY BAER IS WHIPPED

Brother of Max Drops Six-round Decision to Ford Smith in Preliminary

New York, Sept. 25.—After Joe Louis had knocked out Max Baer in the main event yesterday evening, the Baer family absorbed another defeat when Jacob (Buddy) Baer Jr., younger brother of Max, lost a six-round decision to Ford Smith of Kallispell, Mont., in a bout that originally was booked as a semi-final, but which was held after the main go.

There were no knockdowns. Smith, though conceding nearly thirty pounds to Baer as well as advantages in height and reach, outboxed and outpointed Buddy most of the way. He received the unanimous verdict of the referee, and two judges after withstanding Baer's two-fisted but somewhat weary rally in the last round.

Buddy weighed 209½, and Smith 209½.

The first of the five four-rounders didn't leave the issue in doubt long. Nathan Mann, brisk light-heavyweight from New Haven, Conn., knocked down George Chip, Wilkes-Barre blond, a minimum of once a round and won a technical knockout after 2:19 of the third when Chip was rising, groggy from right hands, for the fourth time.

EASY DECISION
Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, won an easy four-round decision over Terry Mitchell, rough red-headed Irishman from Boston. Right under the gun, Pastor flicked Terry's face with a left hook, cutting and closing completely his right eye. Pastor whipped him handily, though he could not floor him. Mitchell weighed 13½, Pastor 184½.

George Turner, nineteen-year-old Tulsa boy, who made all kinds of trouble for Max Baer in the former champion's training camp at Spectator, hammered out a four-round decision over Heinz Kohlhaas, German heavyweight, in another gory spectacle.

Kohlhaas weighed 205 pounds, Turner 185.

Toronto, Sept. 25 (Canadian Press).—A. B. Handwick of Montreal was chosen yesterday by the supreme council of the Sons of England Benefit Society as president of the society, replacing W. B. Oglesby of Brandon, Man. Mr. Oglesby, Brandon business man, becomes supreme secretary, and will move from Brandon to Toronto to take over his duties.

who yesterday evening battered Max Baer into a state of helplessness, in four rounds to become outstanding heavyweight fighter since the days when Jack Dempsey was in his prime. The negro, who can get a title bout with champion James J. Braddock, is certain to become the heavyweight champion of the world.

heart, but there was no dynamite in his fists. Instead of setting a whirlwind pace, he came out cautiously. Instead of slugging, he tried to box as masterful a young boxer as the ring has developed in a generation.

Only twice did the former champion flash the sort of punching flurry that battered down Schmeling and Primo Carnera. Midway in the first round Max let fly with both hands. He landed hard on the head but yielded quickly to the negro's counter blast.

In the closing moments of the second round Baer let loose his most spectacular attack. Rushing Louis to the ropes, Max flailed away lustily. He joined Joe with another looping right.

The bell rang but Baer didn't hear it. He punched furiously, trying desperately to land a decisive blow. He did deliver his hardest wallop before the referee could stop the overtime slugfest, but Louis trotted to his corner unharmed.

NO SURPRISE
All told, Baer didn't land a half-dozen solid blows. His announcement afterward that he is through with the ring came as no shock to those who witnessed the failure of his attempted comeback.

ROUND ONE
Baer came slowly from his corner, hunched in a half crouch, and Louis stabbed his face lightly a half dozen times with lefts. Louis missed a left hook to the body and Baer ripped into him savagely with a right to the head. They locked in a clinch, both cold and deadly, and appeared carefully at each other. His face never changing, Louis flicked a stream of lefts into Baer's forehead, hooked a hard left to the head then smashed Baer's chin with both hands on the ropes. A right to the head brought blood trickling from Baer's nose and he forged in desperately, missing a long wild right. Baer opened up with a savage attack but Louis survived the storm and drove Max into a corner where he hammered his head unmercifully. Baer reeled in the corner, pinned there, and Louis hammered him savagely up to the bell. Blood covered his face. Baer slumped dejectedly at the negro as he walked to his seat. Louis's round.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

Fight Receipts Total $932,944

New York, Sept. 25.—The Louisville fight stood sixth on the all-time list to-day, in gross gate receipts, with $932,944 contributed by 48,831 fans.

The total attendance, including complimentary ticket holders, police, firemen and employees, approximated 92,000, according to promoter Mike Jacobs.

Net receipts were $805,725, after the deduction of taxes. Of this amount 10 per cent or $80,572 goes to the milk fund. The fighters split 50 per cent of the balance, with each share amounting to $217,376, the biggest either Baer or Louis has ever received.

a clinch, belting his head with both hands. Louis shot a clean right hand to the jaw, and poured a volley of left hooks into the side of the former champion's head. Baer took his lacing magnificently, stalking after the negro, as Louis moved around the ring, lashing his face with lefts. Grinning through a bloody mask, Baer ripped a left hook into Louis's head, but the negro pinned him on the ropes and knocked him down with a barrage of left hooks. Baer came up at nine. He went down again under another volley of left hooks but the bell saved him at the count of four. Dempsey ran out, dragged the bloodied white man to his corner, and they sought desperately to restore him. Louis's round.

Baer came out haltingly and Louis stalked him like a panther after a stricken game. He stabbed Baer's head with his long lefts, twice hooked Baer's chin with his lefts. He was setting Max up for the kill. A left sank deep in Max's body and he stumbled back. Another left and right belted him at the middle. A left and right to the chin rocked Max and as he leaned back against the ropes he threw his first punch of the round, a left hook into Baer's head, then smashed his mouth up with a biting volley of left jabs. Louis missed a long right and they fell into a clinch. A long right floored Baer. He dropped to his knees, dropped his hands to the canvas and stayed there helpless as Referee Donovan counted him out a knock-out victim in two minutes and fifty seconds after the start of the fourth.

VETERANS IN TENNIS WIN

Van Ryn and Allison Capture Pacific Southwest Men's Doubles Title

Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Those two veteran Davis Cup stars, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, proved yesterday that they are the best doubles team in America when they defeated their compatriots, of the international squad, Don Budge and Gene Mako, in the finals of the Pacific southwest championship.

It was only after a close, hard-fought match, however, that the national titleholders overcame their more youthful opponents by the scores of 7-9, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

The men's doubles match, a second surprising episode involving the defeat of Roderich Menzel, the Czechoslovakian, also marked the play. After defaulting to Budge in the finals of the men's singles Monday so that he might better play in the mixed doubles, the European lost interest yesterday morning in this phase of the play.

BRILLIANT PLAY
Teamed with Carolyn Babcock, Los Angeles, Menzel played brilliantly during the first set of the semi-finals match against Nancy Lyle, England, and Jacques Brugnon, France. When the tide turned against him and his partner, 9-7, Menzel volleyed softly to Brugnon and netted the ball when his opponent across the net was Miss Lyle. As a result the second set went 6-4.

The women's doubles title also was decided yesterday with Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, and Josephine Cruikshank, Santa Ana, defeating Miss Babcock and Mrs. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, 6-0, 2-6, 12-10.

Budge, after losing out in the men's doubles, returned to the court almost immediately, and with Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, annexed the mixed doubles crown at the expense of Miss Lyle and Brugnon, 6-4, 6-6, in the final championship match of the long, drawn-out tourney.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

There will be a membership committee meeting to-night in the Y.M.C.A. to organize for the membership drive. E. G. Rowbottom will be in the chair.

A meeting of the educational committee is called for Friday evening by F. Butterfield to consider programs and reports and to arrange for special speakers to cover the various needs of the many groups within the "Y."

The organization meeting of the public speaking class to be conducted by Frank Paulding was held last night. Mr. Paulding plans to hold a second class to meet every Friday night.

Election of officers of the Senior Leader Corps was held last night. The following officers were elected: President, Jack Allison; vice-president, Fred Noel; secretary-treasurer, Ron McRae. The group decided to meet twice a week, Tuesday night at 7.15 for theory to study for the first few weeks class supervision and procedure and on Friday nights at 7 o'clock for practical work on the apparatus. At the latter, class teaching methods and protection for the beginners will be carried on as well as advanced gymnastics for the squad. Bill Sellers, a former president of the corps, attended the meeting last night along with Norm Collins, Chris McRae, Ron McRae, Bob Gordon, Jack Allison, Fred Noel, Lawrence Moore, Lou Schmels and Archie McKinnon.

President Walter Harris of the Junior Leader Corps has called an organization meeting of that body for next Saturday morning. The group will meet on the gym floor for an hour of practical work on the apparatus. The swimming pool will be used for the next half hour and at 12.15 they will sit down for lunch at which a business meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year will be held.

At an informal session of the wrestlers who work out at the "Y" it was decided to hold an organization meeting next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. They will probably work out two nights a week, Tuesdays and Fridays. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Boxing is also being considered and an announcement will be made at a later date.

FIRE SEASON REACHES END
Occurrence of Forest Blazes in British Columbia This Year at Low Point

With only twenty-two fires all over the province last week, the annual forest fire season in British Columbia is practically at an end. It was indicated in forest branch reports to-day, Cool and showery weather prevailed in all districts and with temperatures lower and humidity higher the hazard is down to a minimum.

Although figures on losses have not been compiled, record of fire occurrence shows 1935 as one of the best from a forest protection viewpoint in many years. Up to September 21, 1,054 fires had been recorded, one-third less than last year's total of 1,538. The Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, was the only area suffering to any great degree, having 433, or more than 40 per cent of the total fires in the province.

CANON MAKES FIRST VISIT

World Passing Through Extraordinary Phase, Says Toronto Cleric

"It's an extraordinary phase we are passing through. It seems to have gripped the entire universe," said Canon H. Woodcock of Toronto, speaking of the general unrest evident to-day.

The canon is visiting Victoria for the first time and came to the coast from Calgary, where he attended the executive sessions of the Anglican Synod.

"Gone haywire," was the term he used in commenting upon the tendency of western governments to apply to Canada's federal government for loans to help them out of their difficulties.

"They look upon Ottawa as a sort of godfather and expect benefits that no government could confirm," he said.

Canon Woodcock displayed interest in the visit of the Dean of Canterbury to Canada as a champion of Social Credit. He knows the dean having met him in London last year.

"Social Credit is his gospel," remarked the canon.

FUND CLIMBING

Asked about the Anglican restoration fund, which was discussed at the general meetings of the synod at Calgary, Canon Woodcock said that the fund had now been subscribed to restore the lost endowments.

The total amount being raised within three years is $1,100,000, $200,000 of which is for the pension fund.

"When the campaign ends next October we expect a considerable amount of the $200,000 required for the general pension fund will have been subscribed," said the canon.

Twenty-two bishops attended the impressive session held in Calgary, the visiting cleric said.

Canon Woodcock has been in Toronto twelve years and was responsible for the building of Christ Church at Deer Park, Toronto.

The canon spent most of yesterday on the Oak Bay and Colwood golf courses. He says he is impressed and delighted with Victoria.

At the Empress Hotel, where he is staying, Canon Woodcock was this morning visited by Canon F. A. P. Chadwick.

UP-ISLAND MAN

Harold Edward Wallis, of Hilliers, V.I., passed away yesterday at the Jubilee Hospital, aged fifty-six years. Mr. Wallis was born in England and had been a resident of this province for thirty-two years. He is survived by his widow and three brothers and two sisters in England. A brother, H. E. Wallis, passed away in Courtenay a year ago.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from McCall Bros. Funeral Home, and will proceed to St. John's Church, Colwood, where service will be held at 4 o'clock. Rev. Canon H. W. G. Stocken will conduct the service, after which interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo, who is conducting a very active campaign, will speak in Hampton Hall, Burrards Road, to-morrow evening at 8.15 o'clock. The same evening at 8.15 he will address the electors in St. Mark's Hall, Boleskine Road.

Mr. Chambers has made a very favorable impression on all who have heard him during the last few weeks and all voters in Saanich are advised to hear this young speaker.

Campaign headquarters at 3526 Douglas Street are open all day. Any voter desiring information is invited to telephone Empire 1149 or 1147.

Mother and Daughters, Thrown From Car on Highway, in Hospital

Provincial police to-day swore out a warrant for the arrest of Edward Lore, Chinese, on a charge of failing to return to the scene of an accident on the Island Highway yesterday evening, which resulted in the removal of a mother and her two daughters to the hospital.

The accident occurred, according to the provincial police, about 10 o'clock when Lore is alleged to have driven a car driven by E. Burnham, Thelma Lake Road, near the Newton property just north of the Craigflower Bridge.

The impact threw Mrs. Burnham and her daughters, Vera, three years old, and Phoebe, one year old, from the car on to the side of the road, necessitating their removal to St. Joseph's Hospital, where they were under care of Dr. A. C. Sinclair to-day.

Constables A. G. Carmichael and F. H. Brown attended the accident, and within half an hour of starting the investigation they discovered a drive-yourself car, alleged to have been hired by Lore, abandoned in the city.

At St. Joseph's Hospital, this afternoon Mrs. Burnham and her daughter were reported making good progress. They suffered from shock and a general shaking up, with minor injuries.

FINES GO TO
B.C. TREASURY

Two Securities Act Probes Bring in $35,000

Fines collected in Vancouver on stock manipulation charges arising out of investigations under the Securities Frauds Prevention Act will be turned over to the provincial treasury. It was stated this morning by Attorney-General Gordon Sloan.

The province gets $20,000 imposed in connection with charges laid after the inquiry into dealing of stocks of the Wayside Mines which were cleared up some time ago.

Yesterday in Vancouver a $15,000 fine was imposed on the Clifton Corporation, a United States concern operating in British Columbia for the handling of stock of Nicola Mines and Metals Limited. This prosecution was also an outcome of provincial investigation under the Securities Act.

Mr. Sloan stressed the fact that in both prosecutions the value of the nor the operation of the mining companies themselves was in question, but the handling of the respective stocks by the brokerage houses charged.

He said he was gratified with the outcome of both investigations.

"They prove the soundness of this legislation in curbing doubtful practices and will serve as an example to other brokers," he said. "Other investigations will be made if the facts warrant, although there is nothing in mind just now."

In recovering the fines imposed in these cases, the provincial treasury will be able to pay for the cost of the inquiries, which ran to a considerable amount. The $35,000 is therefore no net gain to the province.

HARRY RENFREE IS PRESIDENT

Young People's Society of Emmanuel Baptist Church Elect Officers

Marking the opening of another year's activities of the Young People's Society of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, a meeting was held in the schoolroom of the church last night. With Ted Boulden presiding, the meeting opened with a hymn, followed by a Scripture reading, Harry Renfree, the Misses Ethel and Annie Rhodes rendered a delightful duet "Ball Song."

Rev. Dr. A. S. Imrie, the pastor, addressed the gathering briefly, welcoming the young people back to active participation in the church activities for the fall season and outlining the responsibilities and opportunities of the young people and their organization.

Miss Lillian Parfitt gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the parliamentary procedure of business meetings. She took the chair and proceeded with the election of officers for the ensuing year. The following were elected: Honorary president, Dr. A. S. Imrie; president, Harry Renfree; vice-president, Ted Boulden; secretary, Miss Joan Lambriek; treasurer, Elsie Cross; pianist, Emma Gower; missionary, Ethel Rhodes; devotional, George West; reporter, Roy Hunsley; musical, Elsie Cross and Ted Boulden; social, Dora Hunsley and Ted Boulden; and refreshments, Annie Rhodes and Margaret Seap.

Plans for the coming season's work will be taken up at a meeting of the executive on Thursday. An interesting programme for next Tuesday's meeting is promised.

MEMORIAL AVE.

Saanich, Victoria and Chamber of Commerce Will Co-operate on Highway

Memorial Avenue, which was constructed as a memorial to those who fell in the Great War, and has been in deplorable condition for the last few years, will be completed and renovated.

This was announced yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, who have been in collaboration with the Victoria-Saanich beaches committee.

The expenditure of the trust fund of $411, which has been donated by citizens for the purpose of improving Memorial Avenue, will be used to maintain the avenue.

W. T. Stralich, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Captain G. McGregor and Frank Partridge will comprise the committee to supervise the expenditure of the fund.

The Victoria and Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee yesterday stated it would undertake the maintenance of Memorial Avenue in future years for the annual sum of $250.

Memorial Avenue extends from the city limits to Mount Douglas Park. It was stated that evergreen trees will be substituted alternately in place of the plain trees, which now line the avenue.

Poppies will be planted around the bases of the trees. The boulevards will be graded and seeded.

RELIEF JUMP
SCRUTINIZED

Increase in August Rolls in B.C. Causes Problem For Government

A continuous decline in B.C.'s relief rolls, by comparison with last year, came to an abrupt halt in August, it was learned at the Parliament Buildings to-day and relief authorities set about the task of finding out why.

While no comment could be obtained to-day in the absence of Hon. George B. Pearson, Minister of Labor, it was expected this situation would come under close government scrutiny.

The figures, as compiled by the relief department, showed 79,627 individuals, including heads of families, dependents and single persons, receiving aid during August. This compared with 78,167 in August, 1934, making an increase of 1,500.

The customary decline from July to August occurred, but it was not nearly so marked as last year. From July to August the drop was 4,100, while last year it was 5,800.

This condition, it was stated, could be partly explained that in August last year a re-registration took place, resulting in a substantial reduction of the rolls.

Examination of the figures showed the increase to be largely in municipal cases. There were 1,200 more individuals in the municipal resident family class and 1,200 more in the municipal transient family category, with a corresponding jump in single men. On the other hand, provincial resident family cases dropped by 2,200 individuals.

In view of the steady decline in relief month by month this year, running from 10 to 15 per cent, the authorities were hesitant to try and explain the sudden jump in August.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL

Many sorrowing friends attended the funeral yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Lena Rose Basso, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital on September 21. Rev. G. G. MacKenzie conducted the service, during which Mrs. S. M. Morton rendered the solo "Face to Face." The congregational hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me." The casket was surrounded with a number of beautiful floral tributes, which betokened the high esteem in which Mrs. Basso was held. The pallbearers were: E. M. M. M. Baker, A. Francis, R. Armour, L. Harknett and J. Mannin.

For the second time in as many years, T. R. Bell, Oak Bay gardener, has won the most coveted trophy in the Vancouver Island Horticultural association's garden competition, whose results were announced to-day.

OPPOSE WINE

Nanaimo Council Against Open Sale in Restaurants

Nanaimo, Sept. 25.—Nanaimo City Council opposed the sale of light wine and beer in restaurants at the meeting Monday evening. Alderman Kerr stated there was a concerted move to legalize the sale of beer and wines in restaurants. He moved that the council go on record as being opposed to this action and that the proper officials of the government be notified. Alderman Inkster stated that those in favor of the sale, contended that without beer and wines in restaurants, much tourist trade would be lost to the island.

In view of the fact, however, that tourist trade had increased on the island this year by 38 per cent, he did not think that this contention held good. The motion passed unanimously.

Recently the council asked the government to allow unemployed men in municipalities to work for their hunting licenses. Unemployed provincial men are allowed to work an extra day and received a license and the council contended that there should be no discrimination.

A letter was received from E. W. Griffith, administrator of unemployed affairs, to the effect that it would be impossible for the government to furnish work for municipal unemployed in order that they may obtain a hunting license, as all available funds had been planned for work already apportioned.

Sir Edward John Carroll of Sydney and Brisbane, Australia, described in his will as "gentleman and investor," left to his "lifelong friend, Oscar Hopspur Ransom," $500 a year for life as long as he is out of work.

For having rescued a twelve-year-old boy from drowning, Ko El Ha, aged forty-four, a Korean man who formerly was a diver, has been commended by the Governor of Osaka, Japan.

Premier, Who Spoke in Kamloops Yesterday Evening,
Will Speak on Prairies

Kamloops, B.C., Sept. 25.—Premier R. B. Bennett was traveling to-day to Saskatoon after visiting this part of the province and addressing a campaign meeting yesterday evening. His next speech is scheduled in Saskatoon to-morrow evening.

Mr. Bennett traveled from Vancouver with his car attached to a through freight, arriving here yesterday afternoon.

NEGOTIATING WITH U.S.
The Prime Minister told his audience here that trade negotiations with the United States were proceeding to such an extent he was hopeful an agreement might be achieved before the general election in Canada. But with so many ministers engaged in the campaign, it might not be possible to make such progress. In that event, return of the Conservative government would ensure that the negotiations would go forward without a break, he said.

He wished to correct an impression which he understood had gone abroad, that the agreement would not be reached until after the election in the fall.

EMPIRE PACES
Expressing confidence that the value of the Empire trade agreements had been proved beyond question to his British Columbia audience, Mr. Bennett asked if it was not reasonable to say that his renewal in 1937 should be entrusted to those who had negotiated them originally.

When he traveled through British Columbia five years ago, Mr. Bennett said he had seen fruit unharvested in the orchards and United States fruits being sent through en route to the United Kingdom. "I then said," Mr. Bennett continued, "that if I stated tariffs on fruits and vegetables had been imposed to secure the home markets for Canadian producers."

That policy had been followed throughout the government's five years in office, Mr. Bennett said, with exchange and other duties to restrict the importation of goods which would set up unfair competition with Canadian producers.

DISPUTE WITH JAPAN
These trade restrictions had recently been protested by Japan, said Mr. Bennett, dealing with a trade dispute with that country.

Japan had asked not only abandonment of the exchange dumping duty, but demanded an undertaking from the government that import regulations affecting Japan would not be altered at any time in the future.

"So long as I am head of the government no foreign power will dictate our tariff or other policies," Mr. Bennett declared.

REFERENCE TO TIM BUCK
"Why do you release these men who go about preaching communism?" asked another questioner when Mr. Bennett had made some reference to Tim Buck.

"My friend, I'm glad you asked that question," Mr. Bennett replied. "There is a rule in penitentiaries that prisoners may be paroled for good conduct. To show this government is not vindictive, Tim Buck was treated the same way as any other man."

PENSION SUGGESTION
Some of the money now being spent for relief might be applied toward providing "adequate pensions" for those retired from the labor market at the age of sixty or sixty-five, Mr. Bennett said, discussing his employment proposals.

This scheme of providing work for the 200,000 who are added to the labor market in Canada each year was the best partial solution he knew of, said Mr. Bennett.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
Joan Crawford and Clark Gable's new co-starring vehicle "Chained," is now at the Playhouse Theatre.
Mounted in lavish Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer style, beautifully photographed and replete with a series of well-knit, fast-moving scenes, it is one of the best pictures to be offered in many a month.

DOMINION THEATRE
Talent and courage are the team-mates which win success on the screen as well as in everyday walks of life. That is the lesson taught by the biography of Katharine Hepburn, star of RKO-Radio's "Alice Adams," now being shown at the Dominion Theatre. It is also brought home in a dramatic fashion in the screen adaptation of Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer Prize novel.

In this realistic film of life in a small midwestern community, Katharine Hepburn portrays a girl who shakes everything on her ability to shake off the shackles of poverty and social obscurity and win love and a place in the sun. Heartache and disillusionment follow each other in quick succession, but courage and faith triumph eventually.

Daily Health Service
Insurers Keep Close Watch for Diabetes

Deaths From This Disease Most Numerous in Class of People Who Take Out Largest Policies, Examiners Find

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the most important steps in ordinary life insurance examination is determining whether sugar is to be found in the urine, as the number of deaths from diabetes is greatest in the class of people who take out the largest life insurance policies. Moreover, diabetes is one of the diseases which is definitely increasing as a cause of death.

In the United States it is one of the leading causes, accounting for about twenty-two deaths for every 100,000 of the population as compared with 14.5 deaths in England and 12.8 deaths in Canada for each 100,000 of the population.

In childhood and in the younger adult ages there has been a distinct improvement in the death rates from diabetes, and, of course, in which the difficulty is in the kidney, this organ permitting the sugar to pass when there is an excess amount of sugar in the diet.

Sir Walter Langdon-Brown, eminent British physician, believes that this increase in older women is due to the fact that they are drinking alcohol much more freely than they used to.

One of the difficulties which confronts life insurance examiners is the fact that sugar may appear in the urine in some cases without presence of the condition called diabetes. Many conditions may be associated with presence of small amounts of sugar in the excretions and still not with diabetes. Sometimes over action of the thyroid gland will lead to transient appearances of sugar.

There are cases, of course, in which the difficulty is in the kidney, this organ permitting the sugar to pass when there is an excess amount of sugar in the diet.

Insurance companies cannot afford to grant policies to those who have diabetes without, of course, taking this fact into account. The diabetic person is more likely to become infected than is the one who is not diabetic.

Diabetics also show a special liability to the onset of hardening of the arteries at an early age. Therefore, the life insurance examiner when he finds sugar present in the urine is likely to want to make repeated studies of the excretions to find out whether the sugar appears regularly, and also the extent to which it appears.

If the person is found to be passing sugar regularly and diabetic acid as well, the examiner is certain to say that he is unacceptable as a risk for life insurance.

GERMAN CURRENCY
Berlin, Sept. 25 (Canadian Press from Havas).—The government announced yesterday that effective January 1, the Reichsbank will be the only bank in Germany authorized to issue currency.

Weekly Grain Review

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Quotation-board figures brought cheer to western Canadian farmers to-day for the price of their wheat was higher than ever it had been during the last thirteen months—pressing close to the dollar-a-bushel mark.

Old-time bullish enthusiasm this week pushed futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange up for net gains of 4 per cent to 5 per cent, the result of the largest weekly exports in months. October was at 94 1/2, December 95 1/2, and May 96 1/2 cents.

The week's aggregate of foreign buying was estimated at approximately 6,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, bringing the last two weeks' sales up to 11,000,000 bushels.

The peak of the week's upward movement was reached early in Friday's session, when for a brief moment the May futures sold at $1.00.

Crop conditions described as "deplorable" in Argentina, plus war threats in Europe, brought the bull forces into the market; their enthusiasm further quickened by the reported steadily improving demand abroad for Canada's grain.

Paul Althouse Will Be Ably Assisted

Paul Althouse, in his recital here on October 1, will be assisted by Querrita Rybel, dramatic soprano of the San Francisco Opera Company.

Such an outstanding artist with such an able assistant should prove a great drawing card to the musical public.

Marjory Fisher in the San Francisco News says of her: "The surprise of the evening was Querrita Rybel, who sang 'Venus' for the first time with astonishingly successful results. Her voice has a much warmer quality than was revealed in her roles of last season."

Querrita Rybel as "Venus" was not a surprise to those who have heard her. Her singing was artistic and colorful and her acting good. She is possessed of a remarkable pure soprano.

Marie Hicks Davidson, San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

The concert is under the local management of Violet Wilson and will be held in the Empire Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE
For many years Tom Gubbins has reigned supreme as the "King of Chinatown" in Los Angeles.

But he has finally turned motion picture actor.

He enacts a role in "China Seas," powerful Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer melodrama which stars Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery under the direction of Tay Garnett, and showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Gubbins occupies a unique place in the Oriental world of southern California. Operating in Los Angeles for many years, he began some years ago to furnish the studios with Chinese properties for the sets.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
Joan Crawford and Clark Gable's new co-starring vehicle "Chained," is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

Mounted in lavish Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer style, beautifully photographed and replete with a series of well-knit, fast-moving scenes, it is one of the best pictures to be offered in many a month.

Clark Gable plays the kind of role the public has been clamoring for, that of a young rancher in South America. And as a modern New York girl who falls in love on the boat that is to carry her away from despair, Joan Crawford gives one of the finest performances of her vivid career.

DOMINION THEATRE
Talent and courage are the team-mates which win success on the screen as well as in everyday walks of life. That is the lesson taught by the biography of Katharine Hepburn, star of RKO-Radio's "Alice Adams," now being shown at the Dominion Theatre. It is also brought home in a dramatic fashion in the screen adaptation of Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer Prize novel.

In this realistic film of life in a small midwestern community, Katharine Hepburn portrays a girl who shakes everything on her ability to shake off the shackles of poverty and social obscurity and win love and a place in the sun. Heartache and disillusionment follow each other in quick succession, but courage and faith triumph eventually.

Back From Survey Of Northern Coast

H. D. Parizeau of Ss. Wm. J. Stewart Much Impressed by Beauties of West Coast of Queen Charlottes; Tells of Work Accomplished in First Survey.

"The west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands is the most picturesque bit of coastline in British Columbia. There is nothing else quite like it. It is 'grandiose', enthusiastically stated H. D. Parizeau, chief hydrographer in B.C. for the Dominion government, who has returned to his office in Victoria after five months off the islands aboard the hydrographic survey steamer Wm. J. Stewart.

The Stewart left her base in Victoria at the end of April and carried out the first thorough survey in history of the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands. Previous to this year only some twenty-five miles of the northwest coast had been surveyed many years ago by officers of H.M.S. Egria.

Outside of Peter Doherty, light-house keeper, at Capt. Saint James, his wife and two children and five fishermen, the men on the Wm. J. Stewart saw not a living soul all along the whole west coast. When they went into Rose Harbor for their mail and provisions. Some of the men never left the ship from the day she left here in the spring until she returned yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Parizeau, in an interview in his cabin aboard the ship this morning, said there is not a living soul along the whole west coast of the islands, except the lighthouse keeper and his family. Last winter, he mentioned, Mr. Doherty was alone at his post, his wife and children being absent in Prince Rupert.

The last day the Stewart was off the coast of the islands the men saw their first deep-sea ship of the season. It looked like a Japanese vessel, and it was five or six miles in the distance, heading out to sea.

"There is not a house, not a shack, not a sign of habitation along the whole coast," Mr. Parizeau said.

LOCATED ROCK
During the summer months the Wm. J. Stewart noted her way into many bays, inlets and coves along the west coast, from Cape St. James and the Kerouart Rocks to Rennell Sound and Port Channel. She located a dangerous rock six miles south of Cape St. James lighthouse. The rock, Mr. Parizeau recalled, was reported to Capt. Vancouver by Capt. Grey, master of the United States trading vessel Columbia in 1792. The rock is now duly charted.

Places visited and surveyed by the Stewart included Houston-Stewart Channel, Louisa Harbor, Eliza Harbor, Flamingo Harbor, Big Bay, Thau Harbor, Inskip Channel, Moore Channel, Security Cove, Skelgate Channel, Cannon Pass, the east arm of Dawson Harbor, Rebell Sound, Shields Bay and Port Channel.

In addition, Mr. Parizeau said, "we made the triangulation of the whole of the west coast, from Cape St. James to Port Louis and connected it across the mountain ranges from the east coast, with the geodetic positions of Canada, at Ikeda."

TALKS AGAINST SHIP SUBSIDIES

Shipping Man From Shanghai, Here From Orient, Says They Should Be Removed

While British and other world leaders in shipping are pointing to subsidies as the basic fault in their industry, Mr. J. D. Carriere, general manager of the Java-China-Japan Steamship Company declared here yesterday following his arrival from the Orient aboard the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Japan.

Mr. Carriere arrived with members of his family from his headquarters in Shanghai en route to his former home in Holland where he will visit for six months.

Nationalistic trade policies as reflected in high tariffs are leading even the smallest nations into heavy subsidies for their merchant marine, Mr. Carriere said, whether or not that merchant marine has a reasonable economic chance for efficient operation.

PAYS PENALTY
"The fellow who pays the real penalty for this wrongfully-conceived system of keeping inefficient shipping lines afloat," said Mr. Carriere, "is the efficient company with modern ships, well-established trade routes and years of valuable experience in the business."

"Subsidies," the Shanghai magnate continued, "create a vicious circle which gets smaller and smaller until it pinches everyone within its circumference. Should one government grant its ships a shilling a ton to compensate for an operating loss, another government probably will raise the ante to two shillings, and a third government three shillings, and so on. Where will it end?"

As for his own line, Mr. Carriere disclosed that it operated with no subsidies and carried mail from China at what amounted to ordinary cargo rates. Removal of all subsidies, except those which might be justified on a small and temporary scale to develop trade between new countries or a mother country and her colonies or dominions, and those necessary to maintain proper distribution of mails, was advocated by Mr. Carriere as a big step in the direction of better conditions for shipping throughout the world.

ITALIANS MAY BUY VESSELS

Reports Current That Six Ships, Well-known on Pacific Coast, May Go to Italy

Seattle, Sept. 25.—While no official confirmation has been made, a report emanating from reliable sources states that a few minor details are all that stand in the way of the purchase by Italian interests of six vessels well-known on the Pacific Coast.

Involved are the Quaker Line freighters San Pedro, San Julian, San Diego and two of the States Line freighters, the Oregon and Wisconsin. The general opinion is that these vessels would be utilized as transports. Some state that Italy wanted them for scrapping.

Upon approval from the Shipping Board, which it is understood has been received, the vessels will be delivered.

The San Pedro and San Julian have been tied up on the Atlantic since July, the former in Philadelphia, and the latter in New York. The San Diego is at present unloading on the Columbia River; the San Pedro is en route to Norfolk, the Wisconsin is bound for Yokohama and the Oregon is coming up the Coast en route from New York.

LIGHTSHIP GETS BROKEN NOSE

The famous Ambrose Lightship and the Grace liner Santa Barbara were in collision the other day at the entrance to New York harbor, and the lightship suffered the extensive damage so clearly portrayed in the above picture. Ordinarily the lightship is anchored in Ambrose Channel, but she was en route to her post after annual overhaul when the collision occurred.

"Hot Cargo" Question Goes Before Arbitrator

Two Ships at Vancouver Are Ordered Released in Latest Waterfront Move; Loading of Alexander Liners Stopped But Later Resumed

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—Settlement of the waterfront disputes which have hampered Pacific Coast shipping for several months moved a step closer yesterday with agreement of the International Longshoremen's Association to submit the "hot cargo" question to arbitration.

Announcement of the I.L.A.'s decision to submit the question to M. C. Sloss, Federal arbitrator, was made by Harris Bridges, district president of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

"The I.L.A.," said Bridges, "will abide strictly by Judge Sloss's findings."

Meanwhile the Seamen's Union Labor Relations Board ordered release of two ships at Vancouver, B.C., loaded under strike conditions.

By a vote of five to one the board ordered release of the two ships, the McCormick steamship West Malwah and the American-Hawaiian freighter, Golden Star, both of which have been tied up for some time.

DISSENTING VOTE
S. A. Silver, representing the Sailors' Union of the Pacific, cast the dissenting vote because, he said, his union questioned the authority to issue an order affecting vessels in British Columbia waters.

The Maritime Federation district committee yesterday issued a statement saying an effort would be made to release the Swayne and Hoyt freighter Point Clear, which has been tied up here since last June.

One hundred and fifty longshoremen who walked off two piers yesterday where the intercoastal liners Emma Alexander and Ruth Alexander were being loaded for Seattle, returned to work later in the day under a "truce" with employers. They had quit work when a River Lines boat arrived with alleged "hot" cargo.

Federal arbitrator Sloss met in closed conference with representatives of both sides in the "hot" cargo dispute. Sweeney asked him to rule on whether a member of the I.L.A. can violate the working agreement of last year as an individual; whether a violator of the award forfeits the right to employment; and whether the I.L.A. has a right to refuse to handle cargo regardless of its origin or destination.

POWELL RIVER DETAILS TOLD

Witness Tells Commissioner Company Would Not Pay Union Wages to Workmen

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Details of organization of the Powell River and District Waterfront Workers' Union, coupled most of yesterday afternoon's session of the waterfront inquiry being held here under Commissioner, Mr. Justice H. H. Davis.

John Keene, erstwhile taxi-driver and commercial traveler, told the commissioner that he went to Powell River to look for work last November but did not secure employment until February. He averaged $50 monthly from that time until the strike May 17, he said.

The dispute was caused, Keene said, because the Powell Pulp and Paper Company objected to the formation of the union and would not pay the union wages.

Commissioner Davis expressed amazement when informed, through Keene, that the union was formed and three days later trouble arose.

On May 18, witness said, a meeting was held to form the union. Three days later the Japanese motorship, Helan Maru, entered port but not one of the men who attended the union meeting was hired, Keene said, the paper company bringing men from the mill to do the longshore work.

"Was there any agreement signed with the Powell River Company?" the commissioner asked.

"No," Keene replied.

"Yes, it was, because it involved union men," Keene replied.

The hearing is continuing.

Down the Gangway

Twenty years of service in the mission fields of China have ended for Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Strother, who arrived here from the Orient yesterday by the liner Empress of Japan.

They know China thoroughly, having explored that country extensively. In the old days they went about by primitive modes of travel, visiting out of the way places in the mountains and in outlying parts.

They said, when they arrived here yesterday, that they were extremely sorry to leave the country, which they learned to love well. They left many Chinese friends behind them.

"But perhaps I'll go back some day," Mr. Strother said. He and his wife intend to live in retirement in St. Louis, Missouri. They will then not be so far from Montreal, which was Mrs. Strother's birthplace.
